Apple crop causes concern

By Dieter Krieg

NEW DANVILLE — Some apple trees are carrying such heavy loads this year that a few have actually toppled over from the weight. Richard Haas of Cherry Hill Orchards, here, walked through his apple grove with a mixture of pride and concern. He says this year's yield will be the biggest he has ever had and color and quality are very good too.

"How are you going to sell this many apples?" I asked the bearded young fruit grower. Haas answered with a worried facial expression and crossed fingers on both of his hands. A pick-your-own program began Thursday, which may lighten the load.

The International Apple Institute, of which Haas is a member, predicts more than 175 million bushels of apples will be produced nationwide this year. "Suffice it to say," an IAI newsletter points out, "the industry has its greatest marketing challenge in modern history." The 175 million bushel crop is the largest since 1934 and comes at a time when demand has fallen off.

R. Brian How, fruit specialist at Cornell University, who spoke at an agricultural outlook conference earlier this month noted that apple growers probably face greater uncertainties than usual this fall. Haas agrees with that prediction.

In presenting his statement last month, How remarked: "The market for fresh apples was strong early this season, but there is apprehension concerning future trends and the level of processor prices. Processors incurred high costs for sugar and containers last season, and some are reported to be planning a reduction in pack

Crowds visit Solanco Fair

By Dieter Krieg

QUARRYVILLE - The Solanco Fair didn't officially open until Wednesday night, but no one would ever have known it by the amount of activity going on and the size of the crowds.

A number of visitors remarked that the Wednesday crowd was every bit as large as the crowds usually seen on Thursday and Friday nights. The flood of people continued into Thursday in spite of rain during the afternoon, and fair officials expressed gratitude and satisfaction for the large turnout.

Bob Wenger, chairman of the dairy cattle department, observed that three excellent Holsteins were shown in the aged cow class, and commented on the "real good quality" animals that were being exhibited. Holsteins completely filled the new dairy barn.

Among the feature events at the fair on Wednesday and Thursday were a baby parade, a tug-of-war, trail-bike rodeo, tractor driving contests, judging contests of all kinds, with more to come on Friday and Saturday. One of the surprises was that the new exhibit building, which was not expected to be completed for in-door food service, had been completed. Original plans called for crushed stone floor by fair time, but the cement floor became reality, and visitors were treated to full course meals inside and out of the rain.

The highlight Wednesday night was the baby parade, which had proud parents pulling their children along in all kinds of floats depicting various themes. Floats included a "Puff the Magic Dragon", a Conestoga Wagon, Bicentennial themes, the Flintstones and Dino, and Tweety snd Sylvester.

Shouts and cheers during the tug-of-war could be heard all over town when FFA students from county

Ag exhibits shown at E-Town

By Melissa Piper

The second annual Elizabethtown Market Place Fair and Festival opened its doors to visitors on Wednesday evening, Sept. 17 following a ribbon cutting ceremony, which included Morley Mays, president of The Elizabethtown College and honorary chairman of the event. Gary Myer, Joe Maher, and Bill Hershey, co-chairmen of the festival conducted a tour of the marketplace fair following the opening event.

The festival is sponsored by the Elizabethtown Jaycees and for the second year in a row, has invited residents of the area and county to exhibit agricultural goods as well as needlework and crafts in the market place fair.

Rows of fresh vegetables including ripe red tomatoes and baskets of herbs lined the shelves in the fair exhibit building. Also sharing the limelight were pumpkins and squash in various shapes and tobacco from area farms.

There appeared to be no shortage of canning jars and lids - at least at the fair, for long rows of cherries, pickles and jams were evident and a popular sight at the event.

A host of baked goods which ranged from breads to thickly iced cakes were also awarded prizes and were auctioned off on Wednesday evening with proceeds going to the borough park improvement.

Catching much of the limelight at the event was a display of "super tractors" sponsored by the Pa. Tractor Pullers Association. Bearing little resemblance to the regular farm tractors, the exhibit brought much attention.

Jeff Keeney

Hort major wins award

By Melissa Piper

YORK - Horticulture and landscaping are becoming increasingly popular fields of study for youths and one young man who has already shown promise in this area of agriculture is Jeff Keeney of York.

Jeff is presently a sophomore at the York Campus of Penn State, majoring in horticulture and is planning to transfer to the main campus in November.

Although Jeff had been interested in growing house plants and gardening for many years, his real interest in the field broadened when he began attending the York County Vo-tech school majoring in horticulture.

"I became very interested in pursuing my interest in horticulture and saved enough money to buy a green house; from then on my enjoyment of the work has increased," the youth explained.

Jeff recalled that buying his green house turned out to be a bargain.

"I attended the Philadelphia Flower Show and bought my green house at a low cost." "I guess the manager thought since I was in FFA I must be interested."

Jeff's brother helped him build a permaneant foundation for his greenhouse and since then the building has been full of bedding plants, house plants and a collection of cacti.

Jeff's greenhouse has also housed a collection of some 45 African Violets which were displayed at the York Fair.

While attending the York County Vo-tech school, Jeff was a member of the FFA and served as vice president and also the county treasurer. Two years ago, Jeff was the first place winner at FFA State days in the ornamental horticultural contest.

The youth was also awarded the first place

The largest apple crop in more than 40 years is hanging on the nation's trees. Fairly representative of the expected 175 million bushel crop is this scene taken at the Groff Orchard, Kirkwood.

THE MONEY MAKER

No question.

Thousands of commercial flock records prove it ... in operations like yours. The B-300 is The Money Maker.

By super-efficient production. Consistently outlaying other strains by 10 to 30 eggs per bird.

The B-300 peaks fast and high. Up to 90 percent-plus at 28 weeks. With top feed conversion ... 3.75 lbs. per dozen. And excellent livability.

It holds a trim efficient body weight while producing at least 70 percent large and extra large eggs.

The clincher - the lean, tough B-300 lays ... and lays, a Twelve month hen-day production in excess of 280 eggs!

Old Farmer's Riddle: What has everyone seen, but will never see again? (Answer below.)

Ask the Old Farmer: On my grandfather's farm in Maine there was a place in the pasture that was dry during dry weather, but in wet weather, it would fill up with water, and the earth would become black and oozy. We called it a pughole. Do you know the origin of this? G. S., Battle Creek, Mich.

"Pug" is Old English for soft mud.

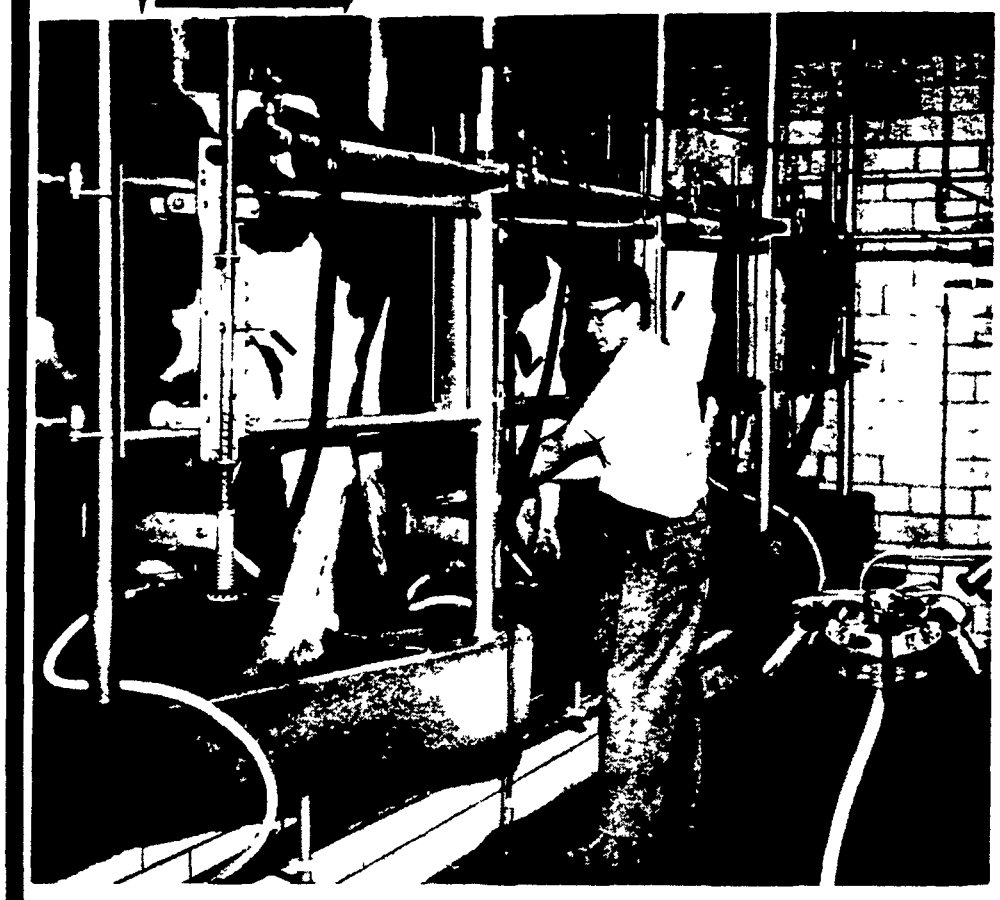
SURGE LEADS THE WAY



The compact and clean working area of this Surge Saw-tooth-Herringbone milking parlor aids this dairyman to do a better job of cow milking. A low-mounted milk line and milker units at each stall aids efficiency.

Why The Trend To Milking Parlors?

The past decade has witnessed a decisive trend toward milking parlors in new and remodeled dairy constructions. The ability to expand one's herd, yet use the same milking facility . . . the adaptability of automatic equipment to mechanize the milk handling and cleaning tasks has contributed to the popularity of milking parlors.

LABOR, however, is the key factor in most dairymen's decision to build a milking parlor. It is easier to do a better job of cow milking in a milking parlor . . and to do it faster. The stooping, squatting, lifting and carrying has been taken out of dairying. Working conditions and man-hour output are improved through a multitude of comforts and conveniences which can be built into milking parlors. You can afford better hired help and with less labor turnover. Or, if you or your family plan to do the milking, you'll enjoy it more and take more pride in doing a good job.

You're a step ahead with Surge

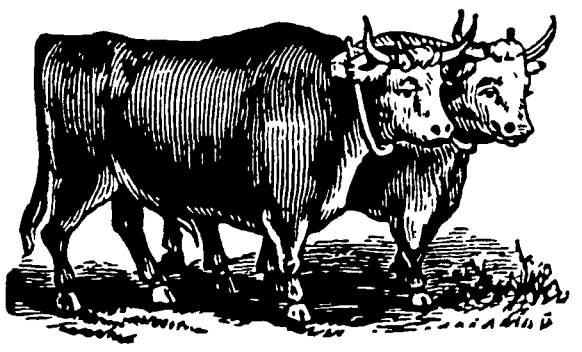
Horsepower Development Paralleled Farm Growth

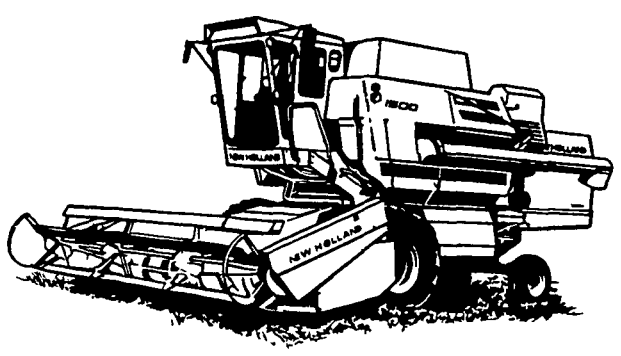


American agriculture today has a very "high-powered" look about it because of the size of modern farm machinery Tractors with 175 horsepower engines pull giant tilling implements across the prairies When the grain ripens in the wheat belt, giant self-propelled combines roar through the fields harvesting enough wheat in an hour for 20,000 loaves of bread

Farmers, who as young men, once pitched hay onto a wagon with a pitchfork can now sit on the seat of a modern automatic bale wagon and zip through their hayfields picking up, stacking and unloading tons of hay in comfort and without the back-breaking work experienced by their forefathers

Agriculture began an immediate development in America, and in the Revolutionary period one of the greatest advances was in the development of "horsepower" Not the kind we speak of today, but real horse power.

The important development of the "Conestoga" horses in the area around Lancaster, Pennsylvania, was overshadowed by the famed Conestoga Wagon, developed in the same area But it was the breeding of these horses that made productivity on the farms better and helped move the produce to the markets in Philadelphia



Oxen were used for tilling and other farm jobs that required muscle power. But, the long haul over rough roads between the farm and markets ruled out the efficent use of oxen The Conestoga horse provided the combination of power for farm work and speed for road travel

The Lancaster area was the home of the most competent farmers in the colonies and many improved farming practices were developed here by the Pennsylvania Germans Today, Lancaster County continues to led the nation in productivity of its farms. The county is the top non-irrigated farm income-producing county in the United States.

LIFE on the farm

By DIETER KRIEG

Each stalk of corn bends over in rapid succession, tapping the next one in the row. They shake vigorously and dust falls from the tassles as the reciprocating knife does its work at the rate of 20 strokes per second. A continuous bundle of stalks gathers in the forage harvester and is sped along to the chopping chamber by several chains which grasp and guide the crop.

There's a roar coming out of the cutting chamber, along with a constant "sssssssss" — the sound of fast and precise cutting. The cylindrical cutterhead revolves at an approximate speed of 16 revolutions per second. If that doesn't sound very fast, then try 120 feet of razor-sharp knife surfaces hitting the corn stalks each second. It sings its own special song, it's so fast — and it has to be fast. Big silos can't be filled with inefficient machines. Under ideal conditions, the chopper will spit out more than 30 tons of corn silage per hour.

Small bits of corn, some of them only a quarter of an inch in length, come blasting out of the spout and on to the wagon. It's like a giant waterhose shooting water, only in this case the material is solid. Watching it all happen is fascinating.

Silo filling is a relatively easy job, but it involves expensive equipment — as does almost every farming operation today. While the work is easy most of the time, it can also be frustrating — when equipment breaks, pipes clog, or the corn stalks jam.

When one wagon is filled, a second one is ready to take its place. And so it goes, hour after hour and day after day until the job is done. It can be monotonous, there's no doubt about that.

Standing by the tractor and wagon while unloading — watching the silage tumble into the blower — can also be boring. But when you stop and think about what all is taking place and what is involved, it's fascinating.

I'm amazed to think of 30 tons of silage being jetted on to wagons in an hour's time. (Some of the newer, larger machines exceed that capacity by far.) The same can be said for unloading silage at a rate of one ton per minute — sometimes air-blasting it as high as 100 feet straight up to reach the top of the silo.

I can't help but wonder at the power of these machines and the precision that has to be involved in cutting and blowing silage. I'd hate to have to hire enough men to perform those tasks by hand. Keeping those thoughts in the foreground of my mind while filling silos is probably why I have never tired of it.

Farm Commentary

By Dieter Krieg

President Ford last week made a statement concerning shipments of grain to the Soviet Union which makes some sense to me. He called for a pact which would allow for more uniform purchases and for commitments which stretch several years ahead so that American farmers know for sure whether to expect huge sales to Russia or not. That should be a step in the right direction, although caution should not be tossed to the wind if negotiations for such a deal are successful

The President's statement, which appears on 67 under the headline "President Ford calls for grain export stability," should be un the interest of all those mentioned by him.

Caution should not be forgotten with these negotiations, however, because to put it bluntly, the communists are for the most part nothing more than a pack of liars, thieves, cutthroats and sabotagers. The American government has failed to recognize this fact, it seems to me, while millions of refugees from behind the Iron and Bamboo Curtains have fled and are continuing to try escaping the system. We fail to listen to men such as Alexander Solzenitsyn.

We are doing a great disservice to ourselves by taking communism lightly and an equally great disservice to the millions who are enslaved under the red regimes. Communism would not have lasted this long if it had not been for the continuous aid from the western world, particularly the United States Lenin predicted long ago that the capitalistic system would hang itself with a rope given to us by the communists. The rope appears to me as being the lure of making a fast buck in Russia. American business interests seek the almighty dollar while strengthening

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W ALTHOUSE

MARK OF CAIN

Lesson for September 21, 1975

Background Scripture: Genesis 4.

Devotional Reading: 11 John 4:7-21.

The story of Cain and Abel is as old as mankind and as new as tomorrow's headlines.

It takes place every day in our community, our neighborhood, perhaps even our home.

Two or more people can play the game; we need just two of God's creatures: two brothers, a brother and a sister, a husband and wife, a woman and her neighbor, a man and his employer or perhaps two racial groups, two religious factions, or two or more countries.

Where is your brother?

In the story of Cain and Abel the two people are brothers . . so are we all!

And there are differences - as there always are: Abel is a shephard, while Cain is a farmer. In ancient days there were no two groups of people more unalike then keepers of animals and tillers of the soil. Even in the American West of the nineteenth century the conflict between the cattlemen and the "sodbusters" was legendary.

At any rate, there are differences and the one does not uunderstand the other. And where there is a lack of understanding, there is usually suspicion, distrust, and jealousy. In this case, Cain was jealous because it seemed that God favored his brother's offering more than he did his own.

This was no unimportant matter, for we are told: "So Cain was very angry, and his countenance fell" (4:5). In this common emotion there were sown the seeds of a tragic, violent act.

Why did God regard Abel's offering more highly than Cain's?

The answer is probably to be found within Cain and not in his offering. It is apparent from what God says to him that Cain's offering is given in the wrong spirit. He gives in order to gain God's favor, perhaps even to gain more favor than his brother. He gives an offering to God, but he does so from the wrong motives.

What have you done?

"If you do well, will you not be accepted?" says God (4:7). In other words: don't get hung-up on what your brother does, give me your best and it will be enough. It is still good advice: do your best and don't become concerned with your brother and what he does.

But Cain does not heed the advice - just as we often do not. And God comes with those terrible questions that Cain tries to avoid: "Where is Abel your brother? ... What have you done?" (4:9, 10). Cain's response is desperate and flippant - like outs: "Am I my brother's keeper?"

No, not his keeper, but you are his brother! Regardless of how different he may be, no matter how strange may be his ways, regardless of how he may rub us the wrong way . . . nevertheless: he is our borther!

But the story of Cain and Abel is one of redemption, not just judgement. When, at last, Cain realizes the enormity of his deed and its consequences, God puts upon him a mark. This mark of Cain is a symbol of God's forgiving grace and his power to redeem his children . . . whom he creates to be brothers!

To Check Feed Storage Bins:

We are in the fall season where we see considerable temperature change from day to nite. This causes a lot of moisture condensation, as we see on windows. This same type condensation takes place in the bulk feed bins on our farms. It causes the build-up of molds on the bins and in the feed.

When feed bins are cleaned out, they should be inspected thoroughly, right down to the boot. Also, when you are taking feed out of the bin, keep a close watch for chunks of feed, it will tell you if the problem is there.

After cleaning out the bin, it should be sprayed with a mold inhibitor and allowed to dry. You can use calcium propionate solution as the inhibitor, at the rate of 2 ounces per gallon of water for this spray.

One of the best preventions for this problem is to insulate the bin. This will slow the temperature fluctuation.

Molds can have a very bad effect on poultry and swine in particular. Take time to check the feed as it comes out of the bins and check the bin for leaks where rain can enter which also causes this condition.

To Stop Unwanted Guests:

Now that the weather is getting cooler you may find some unwanted guests in your barn and home. You won't see them too often, but they're around. These guests will destroy more food and property than they eat. The guests in question are rats and mice.

It's estimated that a hundred million rats cost Americans a billion dollars a year. That is ten dollars a rat.

Rats thrive in areas where grains lie on the ground, where trash and garbage lie around and where trash piles are exposed. Rats not only spoil feed; they kill small animals and chickens. They also carry diseases to man and animals.

Cold weather causes rats to migrate indoors. I'd suggest that you destroy rat foods and feeding places. You may have to rat-proof buildings to keep them out. Bait stations can also be constructed. They should be made so that pets and children can not come in contact with the bait.

For Final Reminder For Gas Tax Refund

Time is running out for our farmers to apply for the liquid fuel tax refund. It must be filed by September 30.

Farmers may apply for an 8 cent per gallon refund on all liquid fuels used in non-licensed tractors when used off the highway for agricultural purposes or non-licensed power farm machinery used for actual farm purposes.

The liquid fuel tax refund is for all fuel used between July 1, 1974 and June 30, 1975.

If you have not already received application, then at this late date, apply by calling the Board of Finance and Revenue in Harrisburg, 717-787-3365.

To Water Shallow-Rooted Plants:

Plants with shallow roots - such as azaleas, rhododendrons, mountain laurel, and flowering dogwood need frequent waterings. And it's a good idea to continue watering these plants on a regular basis until the ground freezes in the fall.

A shallow-rooted plant has most of its root system in the upper three to five inches of the soil. Since this is the first layer of soil to dry out, it's very important that the plants receive at least an inch of water each week throughout the season.

Also, the more water your plants can take up before the ground freezes, the better they will withstand the winter conditions. Keep in mind that when the ground does freeze, there will be no free water for the plants to take up. But even though the ground is frozen, the parts of the plant above the ground will continue to lose water. For this reason it's important to have as much water in the plants as possible before winter sets in.

Largest parade at Ephrata

The Ephrata Fair, now in its 57th. consecutive year will officially open September 23 and continue through the 27th. It is Pennsylvania's largest street fair.

One of the big events on the program is the annual parade held September 24., starting at 7 o'clock. Rain date is the following evening at the same time. The largest and most colorful parade in eastern Pennsylvania is comprised of more than 125 units, which attracts more than 60,000 spectators. High school bands, marching groups, majorettes, floats, pageant queens, and Mrs. Lancaster County Firechief contestants, will be included in the parade.

A carnival spirit will prevail throughout the five-day event along the midway stretching for several blocks with eating stands, rides, concessions and free entertainment at the bandstands each evening during fair week.

Visitors to the fair will see many interesting displays of products from farms, orchards and gardens - flowers, vegetables, fruit, home baked and canned goods, crafts, art, models and needlecraft which is displayed in store windows, railroad station building and exhibits tent.

"Tent City" located in the Ephrata Community Park area will display Baby beef, cattle, swine, sheep, poultry, tobacco, grain, seed and forage. Tractor driving, judging of livestock and contests will be conducted daily. Agricultural and farm segments of the fair, actually the foundation on which the fair was built, will be centered in Tent City. It is there that contests are programmed which draw several thousand persons. There will be a pig chase and a cow milking contest in which prominent local citizens participate and provides lots of fun. There will be a tractor driving and garden tractor pulling contest. A swine sale and a carcass lamb auction is slated and those visiting this section of the fair will find many displays and exhibits of absorbing interest.

On Thursday afternoon, thousands of school children jam the rides area of the midway, known as "Kiddies Day", when a special reduced rate is offered to them, to enjoy the thrills of the rides.

The Mrs. Lancaster County Fire Chief Contest, started in 1963, is scheduled for Thursday night with women members of the county fire company auxiliaries vieing for the crown, at 8 p.m.

Saturday afternoon will be highlighted with the annual Baby Parade at 2 p.m. held on Main Street, with thousands on hand to see the beautifully designed floats and costumes as the small fry parade through downtown Ephrata.

The Miss Lancaster County Scholarship Pageant, inaugurated in 1950 will be held in the high school auditorium on Saturday night starting at 8 p.m. This pageant has produced a Miss Pennsylvania and a Miss America of 1954, Evelyn Ay Sempier. Produced by the local JayCees it is considered one of the finest preliminaries to the Miss Pennsylvania Pageant held in the state. The pageant is the final event on the program and annually attracts a sell-out crowd from all sections of Lancaster County.

The five day event attracts more than 200,000 persons each year.

Premium books and schedule of events can be obtained at local stores in the area.

Twelve girls competing

The Miss Lancaster County Pageant . . . . a part of the Ephrata Fair

EPHRATA - The Miss Lancaster County Scholarship Pageant celebrates its 25th anniversary at the Ephrata Fair on Saturday night when 12 county girls vie for the coveted Miss Lancaster County title and accompanying scholarship money.

The program, which has attracted sell-out crowds since its inauguration in 1950, will be held in the Ephrata High School auditorium, beginning at 8:00 p.m. According to Fair officials, previous pageants have produced a Miss Pennsylvania and Miss America.

Produced by the Ephrata Jaycees and the Ehprata Farmers Day Association, Inc., it is an official preliminary contest for the Miss Pennsylvania and Miss America pageants.

The new Miss Lancaster County and all other contestants will share $2,300 in scholarship money plus a senatorial scholarship presented by Sen. Clarence Manbeck. Gift certificates and awards with a total value of $1,500 will also be shared by all contestants.

The young ladies who will compete in next Saturday night's pageant are:

Vickie Albert, 18, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Albert, Lancaster. She is a graduate of Manheim Township High School and enrolled as a freshman at the University of Delaware. Listing the piano as her talent, Miss Albert is sponsored by the Manheim Township Jaycees.

Donna Book, 17, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Book, Lancaster, is sponsored by the Lancaster Area Jaycees. A graduate of Conestoga Valley High School, she is a talented singer and currently a student at Millersville State College.

Gail Heisey, a senior from Millersville State College, is being sponsored by Chi Gamma Iota fraternity. The 21-year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elvin Heisey, Lancaster, she graduated from Penn Manor High School and lists the piano as her talent.

Sheree Johnson, 19, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Rhodes, Downingtown R2, is currently a junior at Millersville State College. She is a graduate of Downingtown High School, losts vocal abilities as her talent and is sponsored by the Mount Vernon Lodge 151, I.B.P.O. Elks of W.

Kim Lauver, 18-year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Lauver, Mount Joy, is sponsored by the Howmet Corporation. She will present operatic vocals during the talent show.A graduate of Donegal High School, she has plans for furthering her education at Millersville State College.

Gloria Longenecker, 19, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lineas Longenecker, Mount Joy, is currently a sophomore at Lebanon Valley College and sponsored by the Mount Joy Jaycees. Citing operatic vocals as her talent, she will sing "Vissi d'arte" from Tosca. She is a graduate of Donegal High School.

Carol Myer, 18, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Myer, Kirkwood. A graduate of Solanco High School, she is currently enrolled as a sophomore at Hood College. She will present a clarinet solo at the pageant and is sponsored by the Quarryville Jaycees.

Diane Risk, 18, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Risk, Quarryville R2. A graduate of Solanco High School, she is sponsored by the Quarryville Teen Club. She attends Houghton College and will present a viola solo during the talent show.

Kimberly St. Clair, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry St. Clair, Mountville, is a graduate of Hempfield High School and the Barbizon Modeling School. Listing the piano as her talent, the 19-year old contestant is sponsored by Harry A. Ressler, Inc.

Ramona Sell is the 18-year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Sell, Marietta. She plays the flute and is sponsored by the Marietta Jaycees. A graduate of Donegal High School, she is now a freshman at Syracuse University.

Mary Seroski, 20, will do a ballet performance called "Prayer" at the pageant. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Seroski, Lancaster, she is sponsored by the Lancaster Sertoma Club. Miss Seroski is a graduate of Lancaster Catholic High School and a student at Point Park College.

Roxanne Stein, Mountville, is the 20-year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Stein. A graduate of Hempfield High School, she is presently a junior at Penn State University and lists a dramatic presentation on horsemanship as her talent. The Mount Joy American Legion is sponsoring her.

Kuhfuss wants moratorium lifted

WASHINGTON, At a news conference following a 45-minute meeting with President Ford at the White House, American Farm Bureau Federation President William J. Kuhfuss Monday issued the following statement:

"The American Farm Bureau Federation has asked President Ford to give definite assurance that the moratorium on U.S. grain sales to the Soviet Union be lifted immediately and not reinstated.

"By mid-October the nation's corn harvest will be in full swing. If the maritime unions resume their secondary boycotts at the ports, the orderly flow of exports will be jeopardized. There have been sporadic work stoppages of several days' duration at the Texas ports since August 7. The uncertainties created by these stoppages have caused serious disruptions of major proportions.

"In all stoppages, the longshoremen have been forced to resume ship loadings under court order.

"The resumption of work by the unions has not been voluntary. Instead, the current agreements between the Administration and the unions is a face - savings gesture to divert public attention from the court action.

"The American Farm Bureau Federation, on August 25, filed secondary boycott charges against the International Longshoremen's Association and its Texas locals to stop the union's interference with grain shipments to Russia. This action was taken against work stoppages by the ILA at the Houston port. Action on the complaint is still pending.

It is essential that the public understand that the motive of the union leaders in ordering this boycott is not concern for food prices in the United States but an insistence on a maritime cargo preference agreement with increased maritime subisdies to be paid by American taxpayers.

"Secondly, in wheat - producing sections of the South and Southwest, farmers are planting their 1976 crop. If farmers feel they cannot count on normal - export sales, inevitably they will seriously consider cutting back on their production to offset the high costs of production caused by excessive government spending and the monopoly power of the labor union.

"I am certain that most farmers feel that they are being used as political and diplomatic pawns by the maritime unions, the AFL - CIO, and the U.S. State Department, in the negotiations being carried on with the Soviet Union

"The decision to send a trade mission to the Soviet Union, headed by Undersecretary of State for Economic Affairs Charles Robinson, was reached in a meeting that included labor leaders, but excluded representatives of agriculture and other business interests. This is a gross insult to the farmers who have produced record crops - supported by the Administration's promise of expanded world markets. This pattern of government management of business has been the cause of economic collapse in Great Britain.

"The labor unions do not produce any grain. The State Department does not produce any grain. The U.S. government does not have any grain in storage. These facts should be made known to the president of the AFL-CIO, who has repeatedly referred to 'our grain' in promoting the union ban on sales to the Soviet Union.

"Farmers and ranchers demand to be represented when policy decisions affecting farm exports are made. They have a primary interest in this area and through their organizations have expended many years of effort and considerable investment in expanding markets for their record productivity. The U.S. cannot manage - or even monitor - the world market.

"We vigorously oppose the trend toward state trading, or government - to - government dealing in commodities, as evidenced in the current U.S. negotiations with the Soviet Union. Such efforts are nothing more than attempts to establish food cartels based on political, not economic, considerations - which can only lead to an erosion of the traditional functions of market operations in international trade. It would be a serious error to supplant the efficiencies of the profit - oriented market system with the inefficiencies of government trading."

Ray Kerstetter (center) deputy secretary of agriculture for Pa. was on hand Wednesday afternoon at the Lebanon Fairgrounds, to present a check for $15,345 to the Lebanon Fair officials. Senator Clarence Manbeck, (right) received the check from Kerstetter and forwarded it to the president of the fair, Jerome Hutter. The check represents 90 percent of tee fair's funding.

Colonial Plowman Was First Custom Operator

Custom operators — those who perform a specialized service for others in farming — are not a new development in American agriculture

In fact, as far back as early Colonial days, there were custom operators at work in the settlements of the New England and Mid-Atlantic areas

The original custom operator was the community plowman

Although they were the most basic of farming implements plows were very scarce in the Colonies The Plymouth Colony did without plows for more than 12 years and farmers depended entirely on hoes and mattocks for breaking the soil

Likewise the Swedish Colony along the Delaware had few plows But these implements were in greater supply on the farms of Massachusetts Bay and around Philadelphia

Due to their scarcity a plow soon became a sign of agricultural distinction The services of a plowman were in great demand

Many towns paid bounties to farmers who had plows and kept them in operating condition These farmers performed a vital service for the entire community

Plowing was still quite rudimentary

Replaces belly-slung mowers

The Yazoo Rider

The Yazoo Rider is already well known to commercial cutters. They bought twice as many of them this year as they did the year before.

It's a completely industrial-standard machine. Yet it costs about half as much as the tractors they've been using, with their belly-slung blades and huge, unwieldy gearcases.

Why are we telling residential owners about it?

Because the Yazoo Rider actually costs less than well-known "homeowner" brands of belly-slung tractor mowers.

In residential use it should last a lifetime.

Try these with a belly-slung mower and advancing the economy of an enemy country (thhe Soviet Union). The hanging is the military and political pressure which this country has had to face in the past and will continue to face in the future in spite of the talk about detente. Unless our trade with Russia is restricted, or more controlled so that advance plans can be made, economic pressure will rise on the economic front (as it has already) and the hanging will be complete.

I can't say I favor trading with Russia at all, but if it must be, then let's do it intelligently. During the next several weeks, the farm commentary on this page will go into greater detail on this subject.

Area DHIA supervisor receives state honors

Individual samples are bagged to be shipped to Penn State University for testing. Here Breneman gets out his supplies as he prepares for work.

J. Harold Breneman, Strasburg R1, has received the Distinguished Service Award of the Pennsylvania Dairy Herd Improvement Association.

Breneman, a dairy herd improvement supervisor for ten years, was one of two supervisors in the state to receive the award, given for "outstanding service" to production testing in Pennsylvania. There are 14 supervisors in the Red Rose DHI Association.

Breneman tests 30 herds in the Dairy Herd Improvement program and has nearly 35 herds in the owner-sampler program.

He said he became interested in the program at the time Eastern States and Agway were merging and the local dealership for whom he worked went out of business. One of the patrons, John E. Kreider, suggested that he look into supervising work. Breneman said, "There was an opening and I took it. I like it very much."

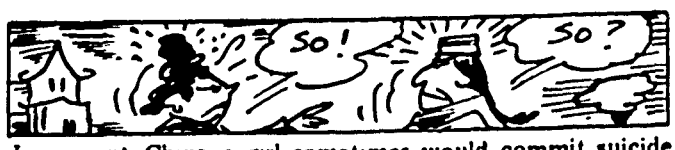
The most rewarding part of the work, according to Breneman, is being able to see "outstanding cows. I enjoy seeing farmers get ahead." He said he finds the records very interesting and added, "I like working with figures."

Belonging to the testing association is very important for dairymen, Breneman said. "Some say they can't afford it, but I feel they can't afford not to test."

According to J. Wilbur Houser, head supervisor in the county, Breneman is a "very dedicated man. He is very sincere and tries to do a good job. I'm sure he is much appreciated by the farmers he works for."

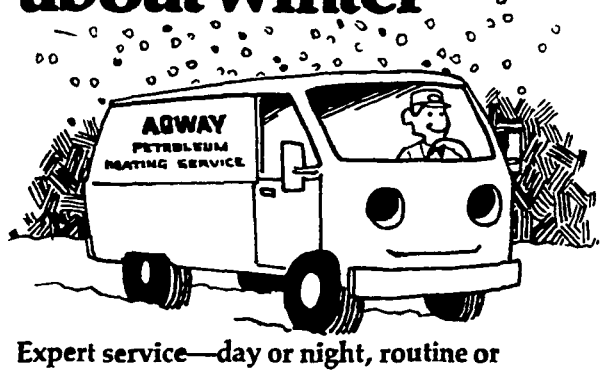
Breneman grew up in the West Lampeter area on a farm with Guernseys. He and his wife have six children, five of whom are married and living in Lancaster County. His daughter Miriam is a senior at Lancaster Mennonite High School.

He is co-pastor, with three others, for the Mechanic Grove-New Providence Mennonite Church. He has been at this pastorate for 24 years, after having served five years in the Philadelphia area.



In ancient China a girl sometimes would commit suicide rather than marry the man she loved because she was jealous in advance of his falling in love with someone else.

Agway Petroleum gives you 3 ways to worry less about winter



Expert service—day or night, routine or emergency
When you have a heating problem, we send a trained, well-equipped technician to check it out. Our service people have the know-how and supplies to perform tune-ups, repairs, or modernizations at costs you can afford. And our optional Full-Security Plan includes six important heating services.

The Agway Budget Plan—to help keep your budget balanced
At your option, we'll divide your annual heating bill into equal monthly payments. You pay the same amount each month instead of getting wallet-breaking surprises during the winter season.

Dependable, automatic delivery—and 50 free gallons if we slip up
If you're an Agway Certified Delivery Service customer who heats only with Agway oil, you never have to worry about phoning for a fill-up. Our degree-day system allows us to keep track of your usage and predict just when you'll be running low. And if we let your tank run dry during the heating season (September 1 thru April 30), we'll deliver your next 50 gallons for free, just to make up.

If you're thinking about switching to oil heat, or if you're unhappy with the oil service you're now getting, call Agway Petroleum.

We're bringing down the cost of winter.

Glencoe® MODEL SS "SOIL SAVER"

A NEW TWIST TO TILLAGE! A totally new and different approach to soil management! The Glencoe "SOIL SAVER" creates a non-compacted, "ridged" field that just naturally protects against erosion by wind and water! Instead of simply turning over the soil and leaving it bared to the elements,the "SOIL SAVER" opens up the land down deep to catch and hold available moisture. — Controls runoff, holds and stores rainwater for thirsty crops — soil surface is left open and blended with crop residues that protect precious topsoil! Cutting "slicers" cut up heavy stalks, leaves and root crowns and leave the soil ready to be turned under by the helical blades following. Designed so you can work your stubble immediately after harvest, generally without chopping or shredding.

Schools competed. The event was won by the boys from Penn Manor.

The new buildings, which are a source of obvious pride to southern Lancaster County residents, were formally dedicated last night. Carlton Groff, president of the fair, said the new buildings "are a start, there are lots of things to be done yet." Ken Rutt, general manager of the fair, described a few of the goals during his remarks last night.

Featured at the dedication was John Hoffman, former owner of the Lancaster Bone Fertilizer Company and resident of Quarryville. He presented a check to the fair association and community to pay for a large portion of the costs of the main exhibit hall. The shell of the building was dedicated to the memory of his late wife, Sara Fuhrman Hoffman.

Mayor James Ferguson accepted the check on behalf of Quarryville Borough, while Ken Rutt accepted on behalf of the fair association.

A representative from Paul Risk Associates, who served as engineers for construction, was on hand to present a plaque for the building.

The buildings had been formally opened last Sunday during open house ceremonies with more than 200 people in attendance.

In remarks made during the open house ceremony and again during the dedication, special recognition and notes of appreciation were given to: John Hoffman and the members of the building committee - Ken Rutt, L. Ben Wenger, William Fredd, Carlton Groff, Sam Kreider, Mrs. Henry Rohrer, Don Trimble, Jason Weaver, and Mrs. Allen Kreider.

The services of the following businessmen were acknowledged: Contractor: Paul Risk Associates; Plumbing: Frank Connor; Electrician: Roy Glackin; Heating: Leon Landis; Grading: Robert Peters; Backhoe: Donald Evans; Painting: Russell Lloyd; Building Materials: Walter Hassel and Sons; G.R. Mitchell and Son, and Walter and Jackson.

Don Trimble commented that the new livestock barn was built in three days, largely by volunteers, and figured that illustrated how well the community cooperated in seeing the buildings become reality.

Champions in the junior division of the Holstein breed shows were Donna Akers, with a junior yearling which placed first in its class and went all the way to grand champion; and the animal held by her brother, Gary, which was first in the senior calf division and reserve champion. Gary's animal belongs to another sister, Linda, who happened to be in school at the time.

Solanco Fair

Sheep were a new entry at the Solanco Fair this year, and small children quickly took notice. Michele Black, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Black, Quarryville, and Danny Duane, (in the stroller) son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Duane, Quarryville, reached for the wool with considerable interest.

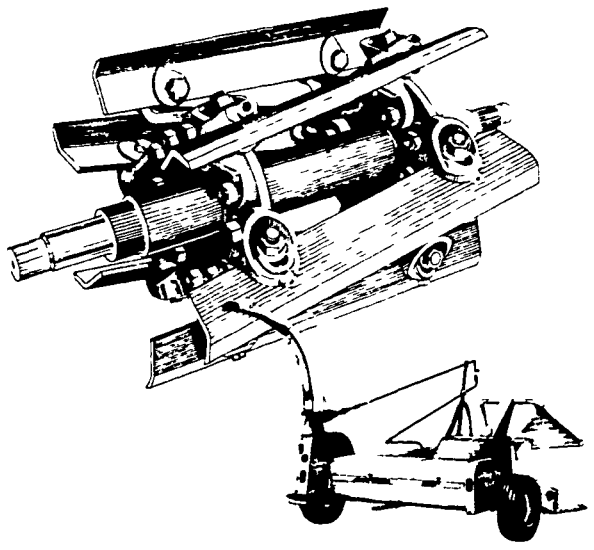
JOHN DEERE



Built to match the bigger horsepower of today's tractors . . . that's the heavy-duty John Deere 3800.

J-knives propel chopped material out of the cutterhead like a paddle wheel . . . faster than conventional knives. Result: Greater chopping efficiency.

These exclusive J-knives are like those on John Deere Self-Propelled Harvesters. So is the slip-clutch-protected feed-roll drive and numerous other components.

The 3800 has heavier drives to and from the gearcase, greater frame strength, and larger fan shaft and bearings (oil-enclosed drive) than other John Deere Pull-Types.

Stop in soon for details on the 3800 and practical JDFP financing.

THE EFFICIENCY FACTOR
helps you get hogs to market weeks earlier

In tests comparing the performance of pigs fed AUREO S. P. 250 with unmedicated pigs, those fed AUREO S. P. 250 showed 31% faster daily gains and 10% better feed efficiency.

With gains like this, pigs started on AUREO S. P 250 at 15 pounds would reach 75 pounds three weeks before those not receiving any feed additive

But fast gains are only part of the story. Besides improving rate of growth and feed efficiency, AUREO S. P 250 helps control bacterial scours, reduces the incidence of cervical abscesses and maintains weight gains in the presence of atrophic rhinitis In addition, it aids in preventing these diseases during time of stress honors in the State FFA proficieny awards for ornamental horticulture and recently received the Carol Thompson Memorial Award for Outstanding FFA work in York County.

And, you can improve your pigs' efficiency still further by use of TRAMISOL dewormer. TRAMISOL is the only wormer that controls lungworms as well as round worms and nodular worms.

During his FFA activities, Jeff earned his county degrees and also his Keystone Farming Degree.

Summer Job in Horticulture

This past summer, Jeff worked for a greenhouse and also took care of many residential properties both caring and designing landscapes.

"When I thought of doing the work, I was afraid I wouldn't find anyone willing to let me help," Jeff noted.

"But it was quite the opposite, in fact I had more work than I could handle."

Jeff noted that many people are interested in pursuing landscaping for residential areas and explained that more people are conscious of their lawns.

"I really believe there is a future in the field and am hoping to find that it will increase in the years to come."

Although college work and activities has taken up much of Jeff's time, the young man has still done much to beautify his own home lawn. The Keeney's have three flower gardens that were constructed by Jeff, one being a rock garden, one being a flower garden and one constructed specifically for the bicentennial.

Jeff would like to pursue a career in horticulture or landscaping but explained that his interests are still open for suggestions. The youth explained at that he might even be interested in teaching in a vo-tech school as that is where he got his beginning interests in horticulture.

Jeff Keeney, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Keeney, Vireo Rd., York; is a former FFA member now majoring in horticulture at the York Campus of Penn State.

Apple crop causes concern

in spite of lower expected costs for raw materials and ingredients. Grower prices may drop considerably below the last two years."

Haas also believes that the processing market will be down this year, and noted that highest prices were paid last year. Although Haas markets the majority of his apples himself, he is not immune to pricing factors. And the higher yields are bound to suppress prices. He says his own apples look especially good this year.

This year's apple crop is extra large because growing conditions have been nearly perfect in all of the major growing areas across the country. In normal years one or more of the five major areas will suffer a bad crop and prices go up because of the curtailed supply. This year that won't happen.

Haas described the local conditions as being nearly ideal for growing apples this year. "Spring weather was good," he said simply, "and the relatively dry summer makes for good fruit flavor." Acknowledging that the early weeks of summer were rather wet, he explained that it did not hurt the apple crop — but ruined cherries. Color is looked for by the consumer, Haas remarked, and the sunny days and cool nights we've had recently are doing just that. It all adds up to lots of apples with good color, size, and eating quality, according to Haas, who has 15 acres of apples on his orchard.

Reasons for the big crop go beyond the weather conditions which we and other areas had this year, according to statements made by How. In assessing the situation, How commented:

"For the longer run the major question facing the apple industry is to what extent the 1975 crop size represents the unusual coincidence of good growing conditions in all major areas, or a fundamental increase in productive capacity. If we are facing the prospects of larger supplies, can markets be expanded to provide adequate grower returns, or must other means be taken to provide adjustment?

"Orchard renewal has permitted a shift toward more highly colored varieties and to those suitable for either fresh market or processing. The construction of more controlled atmosphere storage has enabled growers to extend their marketing season for fresh fruit and even processors their plants in some regions. Mechanical harvesting of apples for processing, which now appears to be commercially feasible on well managed orchards with adequate volume, is reducing dependence on seasonal labor.

"The total market for apples appears to be expanding slowly," How continues. "Per capita consumption of fresh apples has apparently stabilized in recent years after a period of decline following World War II. Consumption of processed products in terms of raw material content is on the increase although the direction and rate of change varies from one item to another. Most of the increase has been in canned apple juice and frozen slices, although canned applesauce still takes a large share of all apples processed.

How says, "If current production estimates do reflect increased productive capacity as well as favorable weather this is likely due to a growers response to favorable returns received during the 1960's and expectations based on technological developments, size controlled rootstock, mechanical harvesting, and controlled atmospheric storage.

"Many growers and processors may find the decisions made a few years ago based on expectations at that time are not working out as hoped," How concluded in his outlook. "The apple industry may be under severe competitive pressure for the next few years and there is no simple solution in sight.

Haas says the apple market is still free of government interference and adds "that's the nice part of the apple industry." He observed that the Apple Advisory Council considers a no government involvement policy to be the best for long range interests. Orchardmen prefer to solve their own problems, even if it means losses. So far the self-imposed marketing adjustments have worked out well, Haas pointed out.

Orchards must be planned five to 10 years in advance, Haas explained. That often makes decision making difficult and the entire business is risky.

"Farming is a risky business," Haas explained, while taking a bite from one of his apples. "In farming, the fruit business is the riskiest, and within the fruit business, it's cherries which are the riskiest," he continued. "With most of my orchard devoted to cherries, you can see I'm way out on a limb."

One tool orchardmen have in arriving at decisions is tree surveys, but their value is questionable. How states that the studies are made at irregular intervals and not coordinated between regions. Haas' opinion is that they are unreliable and are frequently based on inaccurate information. How adds that an analysis of trends in production may be especially deceptive if older trees have been removed to make room for higher density plantings. Forecasts are very difficult and in Washington State, a major producer of apples, there are no tree surveys.

Anyway, for whatever statistics might be worth, Pennsylvania's Crop Reporting Service forecasts the state's apple crop to be 19 per cent ahead of last year's. That prediction is, at least, in line with those made elsewhere. Haas, however, is expecting a crop which is three and even four times the size of last year's. He estimates having six to eight

Solar Fai

Chosen as the grand champion light weight market lamb in the sheep show at Solanco was this one belonging to Linda Ebaugh of Delta. She won the same honor at the York Fair last week.

This was the first year sheep were shown at the Southern Lancaster County Fair. More than 70 head were entered, with a number of exhibitors coming from out of Lancaster County.

In Dorset competition, David Eckman captured every first place.

Shropshire competition was a bit stiffer with Gary Barrett, Christine Ambler, and Mark Ebaugh sharing most of the ribbons. Miss Ambler showed the first-place, while Barrett and Ebaugh shared the other top spots.

Linda Ebaugh, who showed the grand champion market lamb among all breeds, was first in the Hampshire ram lamb class and placed several other animals in various other classes. Competition was strong from Robert Ambler, who had the champion yearling ewe, ewe lamb, flock, and pen of lambs. Miss Ebaugh's entries in the Suffolk breeding class also did well, placing first in yearling ram, ram lamb, yearling ewe, and ewe lamb, three ewe lambs, pen of lambs, breeders young flock, flock, and get of sire classes.

Corriedale enthusiasts who took first places at the show included Bryan Grove and O.K. Blanchard. They split the blue ribbons almost down the middle.

In the Open Heavyweight Market Lamb Show, John Zander was in first place, Linda Ebaugh, second; followed by: 3. Tom Muller, 4. and 5. Mark Ebaugh.

Linda Ebaugh's champion in Open Lightweight Market Lamb Show placed ahead of entries from: 2. Gary Barrett, 3. Mark Ebaugh, 4. Christine Ambler, and 5. James Jeffries.

Joe Klein of Peach Bottom R1 took first place in the youth division of a tractor driving contest held at the Solanco Fair on Thursday afternoon. Following him was Glenn Reinhart, and in third place was Ralph Young.

In the adult portion of the contest, Gordon Herr of Quarryville R1, piloted his way to first place, beating out another Quarryville area resident, William Waltman, who took second place. Coming in third was J. Marvin Herr of Holtwood.

By Dieter Krieg

QUARRYVILLE - The new buildings at the Solanco Fairgrounds were officially opened last Sunday afternoon during open house ceremonies with more than 200 persons in attendance.

The opening was praised as being a big step for the fair, but only one of several that are being planned over the years. During the dedication of the building last night, Ken Rutt, general manager of the fair, commented briefly on what the fair association would still like to do.

Speakers at last Sunday's open house activities included Lee Henney, fair fund administrator from Harrisburg, and Edison Osborne, from the Bureau of Marketing. Both cited the community spirit for the success of the Solanco Fair and for the erection of the two new buildings.

Henny commented that the Department (of Agriculture) role was very small compared to the effort of the community. Osborne, a former resident of southern Lancaster County, remarked that the Solanco Fair is advantageously located to attract competitors and visitors from the southern end of the county, as well as neighboring areas. The community spirit was also a factor, he added, for the fair's expansion program.

Rutt acknowledged the help received by the fair administration - much of it voluntary - and thanked them publicly. He noted that the fair started 26 years ago and has grown during each of those years.

"We live in an enthusiastic community," Rutt stated, "and people are beginning to enthusiastic utt stated, beginning to know Solanco exists." Several days later, when the fair was in progress, the general manager was heard to say that in previous years the fair had to call the newspapers, but this year the newspapers were calling them.

Rutt offered special thanks to the individuals, businessmen, and banks which helped with the project. He also gave credit to the Department of Agriculture for its part in the project, since it donated a check for $15,000. The entire building project cost nearly $90,000, however, and most of the costs are being met through donations from Solanco citizens.

The man who contributed the largest amount, John Hoffman, was not able to be present during the open house ceremonies, but he was scheduled for an appearance during the formal dedication of the building last night. Hoffman donated the shell of the exhibit hall in memory of his late wife.

Paul Risk Associates, who took charge of the building procedures, was also given special recognition and cited for their "excellent cooperation."

Carlton Groff, president of the Solanco Fair, also cited the community spirit during his remarks and added that "it is not hard to be the leader with the kind of support I've had - it's been easy."

He noted that leadership of the fair has passed to another generation, and with the use of these new facilities it should be possible to have even more exhibits than ever before.

4-H FFA Beef show

The grand champion in the FFA beef show was a Black Angus animal exhibited by Steve Weidman of Quarryville. Second place finisher in the event, which drew a large crowd in spite of rain, was Warren Schmuck with a Charolais. The pair went on to receive overall grand champion and reserve overall grand champion of the combined 4-H and FFA Beef Show.

The champions among the 4-H exhibitors were Dwight and Darlene Herr of Quarryville. They won champion and reserve champion, respectively.

Thomasville

The Thomasville 4-H Club will meet on Sept. 23 at the 4-H Center in York County at 7:30 p.m. There will be election of officers. Blue forms are due at this meeting.

The "Systems Approach" OF

Hershey Equipment

LETS YOU PUT IT ALL TOGETHER

Today's profit-minded poultry and livestock producers must think in terms of an automatic system.

Big Dutchman pioneered the system concept for one reason: it is the most profitable and reduces costs for you.

"System thinking" can help you plan your way around problems before you begin building, or it can help you automate away problems in your present buildings.

Hershey Equipment Co. is geared to provide all components of the system, which assures that the pieces fit together in the most profitable package reducing costs dramatically.

Some of Our Systems Include

HOG SYSTEMS

Apples

hundred bushels of apples per acre, compared to last year's 200 bushels. He said an overall average is about 500 bushels per acre.

Broken down into more detail, following is the Crop Reporting Service's estimates, based on Aug. 1 surveys. It forecasts a record 570 million pounds for 1975 compared to 480 million pounds in 1974.

Pennsylvania's apple prospects by varieties indicates the commonwealth's leading variety, York Imperial, will increase 46 percent from last year's production. It forecasts a record 570 million pounds for 1975 compared to 480 million pounds in 1974.

Pennsylvania's apple prospects by varieties indicates the commonwealth's leading variety, York Imperial, will increase 46 percent from last year's production (harvested and unharvested). York Imperial apples are expected to account for 30 percent or 168.7 million pounds of the 570 million pound total for all varieties.

This year a 30 percent increase is expected for Golden Delicious, a 17 percent increase for Rome Beauty, an eight percent increase for Stayman, a five percent increase for Jonathan, and a one percent increase for McIntosh. Only two varieties will show a decrease this year. Delicious will decrease 10 percent from last year and Cordland will decrease by six percent.

Another factor, besides the large crop, which is depressing prices is the large carryover, which exceeds levels of 1966 and 1970, according to How. His studies are based largely on New York conditions, but are applicable to Pennsylvania as well. He noted that the large carryovers have "a great influence on the market - a dragging effect." Meanwhile, he observed, demand for apples has stabilized, and the processing situation looks very critical. Some plants, he reported, are not opening this year in New York State because of environmental laws.

Environmental laws aren't all which interfere with orchard management. Laws concerning labor have been a sore spot among fruit growers for years, and recent government regulations along that line haven't helped things any. Haas said that his labor costs compared with 1972 are up more than 200 per cent. Federal regulations call for a minimum wage of $2.30 per hour in the near future, according to Haas.

One of the reasons behind Haas' decision to go into a "pick-your own" program is to eliminate the labor problem to some extent. That same reasoning is also behind the trend to dwarf trees. They allow for easier picking and management. Haas believes that the future is in dwarf trees, to a degree.

Claiming he has had the orchard business in his heart all of his life, Haas holds a degree in horticulture and has been physically active in fruit management since 1961. Born and raised in Philadelphia he says he always wanted to be a farmer.

He uses a variety of apples and management techniques to make his business somewhat less risky. Just in yellow delicious apples alone he has 11 varieties and he continues to experiment with more in an effort to combine the most desirable color, eating quality, taste, size and finish.

Trees are pulled and planted according to market conditions. Things to consider, he says, are the yield of the trees, and the quality of the fruit. Management costs weigh heavily on such decisions too. Hence the trend to dwarf trees, and more recently a synthetic natural spray which can be applied to mature the crop a little faster.

"The big problem with the fruit industry is spacing out income," Haas said. To do so, he keeps much of his crop in storage, hoping for sales throughout the year. The way things look, he will have a lot of apples to store this year. He crosses his fingers in hopes of getting them picked and receiving a price whieh will allow for some profit.

KEY TO PROFIT
AGRI KING, Inc.
PERSONALIZED FEEDING PROGRAMS
FULTON, ILL.

WHAT IS AGRI—KING?

WHAT MAKES THIS COMPANY DIFFERENT?

Through a series of articles in the next six issues of the Lancaster Farming, we will try to answer these and other questions of interest to the farmer. We hope you find these articles helpful when choosing your winter feeding program.

First article in series of six.

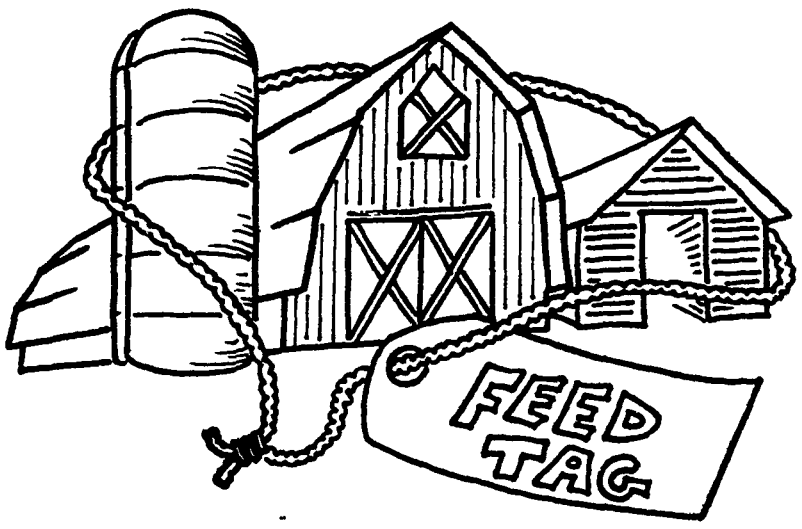
"WHY AGRI—KING BUILDS RATIONS FROM THE GROUND UP"

In building a ration from the ground up we take into consideration YOUR hay, silage and grain and put them into balance. There are several reasons why this is necessary.

It is very important in a profitable farming operation today to have healthy animals. It is impossible for a cow to maintain her health for any length of time on an unbalanced feeding program, especially if she is producing at a high level.

By building rations you can set the ration at your desired level of production and change it as the production changes on your herd. This is necessary to get maximum efficiency from your feed and herd.

In feeding cattle today, a farmer can no longer afford to feed his grains and roughages to his animals without knowing what is in them. A feed tag should be put on your silo, hay mow and grain bin.



It is very important to know the protein, calcium, phosphorus, magnesium, nitrate and moisture content of these feeds in order to get the most use out of what you have grown.

Only now are you ready to purchase the ingredients you need to balance your herd's feeding ration. By buying only the ingredients that you need and adding them in the right amounts, you not only get better herd health and production, but you also get production at the least possible cost.

THIS FALL IS THE TIME TO QUIT GUESSING AND START TESTING THE AGRI—KING WAY!

AGWAY

THE FERTILIZER STRETCHER

Lime stretches nitrogen supplies

Low pH reduces the microbial breakdown of organic materials which release nitrogen to your crops. Proper liming helps make nitrogen available for healthy growth.

Lime stretches phosphate supplies

At pH levels of 6.0 or higher, phosphate becomes more available for crop production. For most crops, plan on liming to a pH of 7.0.

Lime stretches potash supplies

If calcium and magnesium content of your soils is low, less potash will be available for uptake by the plant. With proper liming, less total potash is needed.

It's the right time to spread and Agway trucks are ready to roll.

If you don't have a soil test to guide you, bring a representative sample (one pint) to Agway for a quick, free pH check. Then get that lime put down.

Ethel Zimmerman

Exhibits her canned bounty at Lancaster County fairs

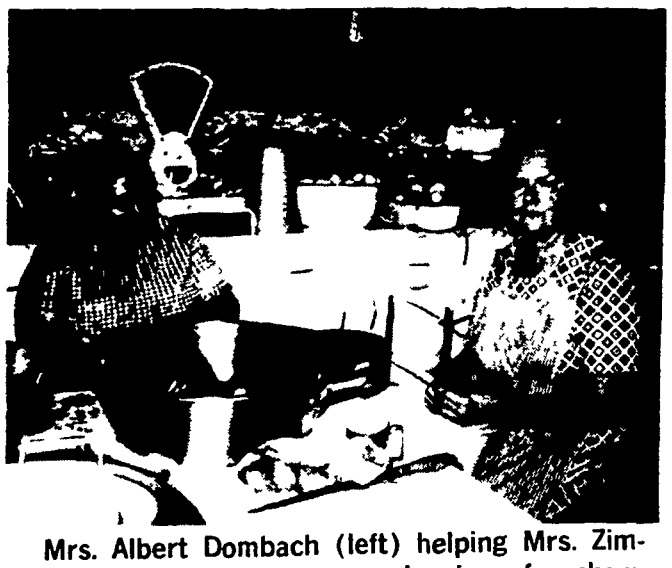
by Mrs. Charles McSparran Farm Feature Writer

"I take canned goods to the fairs because it's fun," says Mrs. L. Henry (Ethel) Zimmerman of 2005 Marietta Pike, in Lancaster County. She will exhibit around 25 jars of canned goods at the West Lampeter Community Fair and at the Manheim Community Farm Show. Sometimes she takes some baked goods also to enter in competition.

It's people like Mrs. Zimmerman who make the community fairs interesting. Many people are canning but not too many take the time to exhibit their things at the fairs. With a little extra painstaking in placing the foods in the jars quite a few dollars can be realized in premiums because the fairs offer enough prize money to make it worth while. There are also still some nice fresh vegetables in the gardens which would make nice exhibits. And the homemaker who finds time in her spare moments to do some sewing or fancywork can pick up some pin money with such things at our fairs. Two of Lancaster County fairs were held this week but there will be four more coming up.

Of the canned goods Mrs. Zimmerman expects to take to the fairs there will be blackberries, raspberries, plums, cherries, applesauce, tomatoes, filled peppers, carrots, asparagus, sausage, pork loin, beef, chicken, spiced crab apples, pear butter, apple butter, yellow tomato preserves, crab apple jelly, chow-chow, corn relish, spiced watermelon, dried corn and dried apples. If she gets time to bake, she may take some baked goods.

For Mrs. Zimmerman canning is a way of life. The daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Willis Sauder, she grew up on a farm in Manor Township. They grew ten acres of tobacco and Ethel recollects "We all helped. We went to Arcade and Southern Markets. Mother and I made chow-chow, spiced cantaloupe and watermelon rind. We had corn dried. We raised all we sold."



Mrs. Albert Dombach (left) helping Mrs. Zimmerman prepare peppers and onions for chow-chow.

Mrs. Zimmerman has a stall at Roots Country Auction & Market, Manheim R1. Her sister-in-law, Mrs. Lewis Sauder, and daughter Ruth Ann help at the market. Mrs. Zimmerman is there from 11 a.m. until it closes at night. She sells vegetables in season, home canned and dried foods, sauerkraut, doughnuts in winter, Pennsylvania Dutch gifts, straw hats and sunbonnets which she makes.

To give an idea of quantities, she made 113 quarts of chow-chow recently and it is nearly all sold. However, she cans the ingredients during the summer and early fall so that she makes it all winter. She made 48 cases (24 pints to a case) of spiced watermelon rind. She used 16 bushels of cantaloupes to make sweet-sour spiced cantaloupe which she usually puts in pint jars. She made about 45 to 50 pints of pepper relish, 30 cases of filled peppers. For those she used 2 bushels of little red, green and yellow bell peppers and stuffed them with grated cabbage. She will probably make 6 or 7 more cases of them. She will make them as long as she can get peppers and cabbage.

Mrs. Zimmerman makes a lot of bread and butter pickles. She sold over 15 cases last year. She is making 3 barrels of sauerkraut which will be ready the middle of October. She sells it loose in containers. She makes a lot of apple butter, pear butter, tomato and peach preserves. This is the season when she makes apple butter. She sold several cases of it last year.

She has an electric drier that has 5 trays and will hold a bushel of apples or two bushels of corn on the cob. She also dries a few string beans. She and her husband dry apples all winter. They used 125 bushels of Stehman and Delicious apples last year to dry. They plan to dry 50 bushels of each this year. They have an apple parer which Henry runs and he also cuts the slices to be dried. Mrs. Zimmerman goes over every one to cut out the cores and any specks. For those not familiar with using dried foods, one pound of dried corn will serve 18 people. You wash and soak in the same water overnight then cook them. Mrs. Zimmerman puts dried corn and beans in plastic bags in ½ pound packages. You soak apple snitz in water overnight, add about ¾ cup of sugar to ½ pound of snitz and boil. A half pound of snitz will make a pie.

Mrs. Zimmerman has four long tables and a round table beside their house where she sells fresh vegetables, canned goods, fresh flower bouquets and potted plants in the growing season. She has many hanging pots of baby tears, spider plant and Wandering Jew. She also grows zinnias, marigolds, impatiens and cockscomb. She starts a lot of plants under jars. Many stay out all winter and are ready to plant out in the spring. She closed the stand Labor Day for this year. Kenneth and his wife, Shirley, help with the stand. Mrs. Zimmerman also sells some canned goods such as peppers wholesale.

Mrs. Zimmerman makes doughnuts in the winter to sell. She sold 175 dozen last Shrove Tuesday. Some of them were sold at Roots Market but most were sold at home. Her daughter-in-law, Shirley, helped her make them.

Mrs. Zimmerman makes sunbonnets in her spare time and sells them at market. She used to make about 500 a year but now finds time to make only around a hundred a year because of drying apples in the winter. She makes bonnets to fit anyone from babies to grandmas.

Mrs. L. Henry Zimmerman will be entering these and a few more jars of canned goods at two Lancaster County fairs.

Sometimes she makes her own pattern for them. Some are plain and some are complete with frills and strings.

Zimmermans have two married sons. Both graduated from Hempfield High School. Kenneth married Shirley Habecker and they live at 2909 Marietta Pike. They have one son, Scott, who is four years old. Kenneth works in the produce department of Stauffer's of Kissel Hill, at the Oregon Pike store. Kenneth has a small garden. Robert married Arlene Rohrer. She works in the cashier's department of Armstrong Cork Company. Robert works in the produce department of Stauffer's of Kissel Hill, at their Lititz store. He has a large garden at their home on the Fruitville Pike. He gives some of his vegetables to his neighbors and his mother sells some. Both boys are baseball fans and go to games. They and their wives also play tennis and volleyball.

Zimmermans used to farm 7 acres of ground when the boys were home. They could grow most of their own vegetables. They planted 3500 pepper plants then. Now Mrs. Zimmerman has to buy a lot of vegetables such as peppers, onions, cucumbers and cabbage. The boys take care of the 3 acres of garden crops for their parents' roadside market. They grow fire beans, sweet potatoes, lima beans, sweet corn, edible soybeans, peanuts and sunflowers. They planted 32 bushels of sweet potatoes for plants. Mrs. Zimmerman pulled sweet potato sprouts from May till July 4th. Zimmermans also have a small garden.

Mrs. Zimmerman says, "I couldn't do all the work if it wasn't for Henry." He helps cut and stomp the cabbage for sauerkraut and pares and slices most of the apples. Mrs. Zimmerman also has to hire two ladies part time for a couple months in the summer to help get foods ready to can. Mrs. Albert Dombach, Lancaster R6 and Mrs. Paul Lynes, Rohrerstown help her.

Henry works as foreman in the can washing department of Musser's Potato Chip plant in Mountville. He also mows five lawns besides his own. He was raised on his parents' farm in the Mount Joy - Elizabethtown area. Later he worked for the Pa. Farm Bureau. They lived on Ethel's parents' 27 acre farm for four years. They raised tobacco and raised and dressed broilers. Mrs. Sauder helped them. Zimmermans have lived at their present location for 16 years.

Mrs. Zimmerman's day starts at 5:15 a.m. During the summer she not only cans vegetables and fruits to sell but she cans and freezes a lot for her own use. She french fries eggplant and freezes it. She freezes all kinds of meat, peaches, strawberries, raspberries and blueberries.

Country Corner

September is a moment in between

By Melissa Piper

I think it can safely be said that summer has taken leave for another year and has invited the cool quiet breezes and nippy mornings of September to take its place

Although the sun has lingered to warm the afternoons, its fading rays remind us that it just isn't as warm as those days in July and August

Many sights and sounds also remind one that fall and winter will not be long in coming Short squiggly caterpillars crawl across the sidewalks, waving their thick fluffy coats - reminding one that a trip to the attic for clothes stored away should be done

With a great sense of duty, squirrels hop and scamper over the lawns in search of acorns and nuts to stuff away in hiding places and native birds can be seen gathering twigs for winter nests

Perhaps one indication most common however, can be heard if not seen That is the hum of tractors and machinery making their way through the fields for the last rounds of chopping For when the squeals of children playing in the yard has subsided in September the persistent hum and grind of machinery seems so much more close

This season is a passing of time which we must adjust to, even though our senses long for the warmth of the summer sun and the purr of the lawn mower trimming the yard. September is a time inbetween when we linger in a span of moments not yet fall but certainly not summer.

Summer's last silhoutte ...

Almost silhoutted against the September sky is the farmer and his machinery making their last sweep around the field. Even when they can't be seen the humming of machinery against the quite earth reminds one that fall has come to stay.

Exhibits her

She babysits for her grandson while his mother works and all the while she has many canning and drying projects on hand. She seldom finds time to sew but during the winter she makes dresses and aprons for herself.

She enjoys entertaining. It was uncommon for her to serve dinner to 40 people until the last couple years and she doesn't have as much time to do it. She likes to cook and bake.

Mr. and Mrs. Zimmerman are members of the Mountville Church Of The Brethren. When the church women used to serve food at sales she and Mrs. Dombach helped by selling pot pie and chicken corn soup. Mrs. Zimmerman is a member of Rohrerstown Fire Company Auxiliary and helps them when she can.

In spite of the busy schedule Zimmermans keep, they go on a trip for a week a couple times a year. Ethel says, "I like to go to sales." She has a few antiques, some of which are family heirlooms. She collects rolling pins. She has made flower arrangements with some of them and gave them as gifts.

Here are a few of Mrs. Zimmerman's canning recipes and some other favorite recipes:

PEPPER RELISH

12 sweet red peppers
12 sweet green peppers
8 small onions
1 qt. vinegar
1½ cups sugar
2 teaspoons salt

Seed the peppers and chop fine with the onion. Put into a bowl, cover with boiling water and let stand for 5 minutes. Drain and cover again with boiling water, let stand for 10 minutes longer. Place in colander or cheesecloth bag, let drain overnight. In the morning add the vinegar, sugar and salt. Boil for 20 minutes. Place in hot sterilized jars and seal.

Makes 6½ to 7 pts.

BREAD & BUTTER PICKLES

6 qts. sliced medium cucumbers
1½ qts. vinegar
6 cups sugar
6 onions, medium-sized, sliced
1 cup salt
½ cup mustard seed
1 tablespoon celery seed
¼ to one-third teaspoon cayenne pepper.

Combine cucumbers, onions, and salt and let stand 3 hours. Drain. Combine seasoning and vinegar and boil. Add cucumbers and onions. Heat to simmering and pack hot. Be careful to avoid boiling as that makes pickles soft. Pack while hot in clean jars and seal immediately.

MOTHER'S CANNED CORN

9 cups corn
1 cup sugar
½ cup salt
1 cup water

Mix with hands until it forms own liquid and put on stove. Boil good. When it boils all over, put in clean jars and seal. When you open the jars in the winter, soak overnight in water. Drain well. Add milk and butter and serve.

FRITTERS

Beat 2 eggs. Stir in ½ cup milk. Sift together and beat in: 1 cup sifted western flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon melted fat or cooking (salad) oil.

Add 1 cup (grated-off-cob) corn, frozen or drained canned corn. Can dip apple slices in batter for apple fritters. Drop corn or batter-covered apples into hot deep fat (375 degrees) and fry until brown. Makes 12 to 15 small fritters.

BARBECUE

1 lb. hamburger
1 cup chopped celery
2 tablespoons onions
2 tablespoons sugar
2 tablespoons vinegar
2 tablespoons water
At least 1 pt. of chili sauce or medium sized bottle catsup
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper

Put in roast pan and cover. Cook in 350 degree oven about 1 hour. Makes 15 sandwiches.

CRUMB CAKE

Mix and set aside: 2 tablespoons cinnamon
6 tablespoons chopped nuts
2 tablespoons coconut

In large bowl, heat 1 cup butter or margarine. Add 1¾ cups sugar and 2 teaspoons vanilla.

Add ½ teaspoon salt, 4 eggs and beat until fluffy.

Add 3 cups flour, alternating with 1 pt. sour cream. Add 2 teaspoons baking soda.

Pour half of batter into greased 9 x 13 inch pan. Top with half of crumbs. Pour rest of batter on this, ending with crumbs.

Cut crumbs through batter many times (use knife).

Bake at 350 degrees for 50 minutes. Test for doneness.

MORAVIAN SUGAR CAKES

Heat in sauce pan: 1 cup milk
two-thirds cup vegetable shortening
2 teaspoons salt
½ cup sugar
Add 1 cup (warm) mashed potatoes
Add and mix: 1 beaten egg
2 yeast cakes in warm water
4 cups flour

Add 2 more cups flour and knead. Cover for an hour. Divide the dough and spread on a cookie sheet. Let it rise ½ to 1 inch. Brush with melted butter after it is raised.

Topping: 2 cups brown sugar
2 tablespoons flour

After dough is raised in pan, punch holes about an inch apart in the dough. Spread topping on and sprinkle with cinnamon.

Bake in 350 degree oven 20 to 25 minutes.

Hearty meals for fall appetites

Invariable fall brings with it hearty appetites and more time to concentrate on making meals an adventure. Even if there isn't time to visit exotic restaurants - a little planning and imagination can make meals at home just as pleasant. The following recipes are just some ideas for beginning a season of creative cookery. They have combined the season's bounty of vegetables and meats to provide interesting and low cost meals for the family.

Casseroles can be whatever you want them to be; elegant for company, nutritious for growing children and thrifty to please the family budget.

No two casseroles are ever the same; there is no end to the personal touches you can add. For special interest try macaroni with an unusual shape. Corn Medley Casserole boasts corkscrew macaroni, which is sometimes called rotini or tortigliono.

Most of the ingredients of Corn Medley Casserole are standbys from the pantry. Loaded with nutrition . . . foods from all of the Basic Four food groups are included to give you a well balanced meal. Juicy meat loaf mixture is teamed with tender kernels of golden corn, zesty green pepper and eye catching macaroni in a cheesey - tomatoey sauce which is sure to please!

Corn meddley casserole

Best of all, Corn Medley Casserole won't bruise your food budget. Complete the budget stretching meal with a salad of freshly tossed greens. For dessert, pop a pan of gingerbread made from a mix in the oven to bake along with the casserole.

Corn Medley Casserole

1 cup uncooked corkscrew macaroni
1 pound meat loaf mixture
¾ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 10½-oz. can condensed tomato soup
1 8-oz. can tomato sauce with cheese
5 drops hot pepper sauce
½ cup chopped green pepper
½ cup chopped onion
12 oz. frozen golden whole kernel corn, drained
3 slices American cheese, cut in halves or quarters diagonally

Cook macaroni according to package directions; rinse and drain. Brown meat loaf mixture in large skillet. Reduce heat; add salt, pepper, soup, tomato sauce and hot pepper sauce. Stir in macaroni, green pepper, onion and corn. Turn into a 2-quart casserole. Arrange cheese slices decoratively on top. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes. Serves 6.

Swedish Meatballs

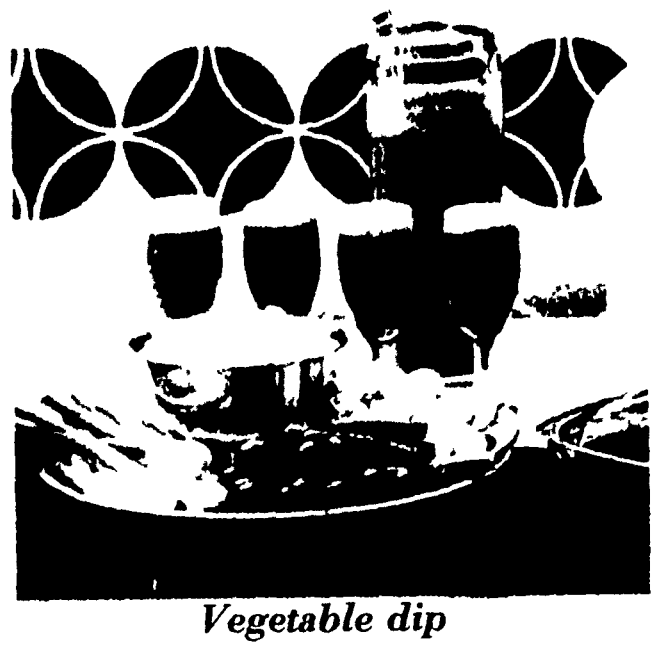
Sauce.

Purchase approximately 2 dozen frozen Swedish meatballs.
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 tablespoons flour
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon dry mustard
⅛ teaspoon pepper
2 cups milk or half and half

The evening before leaving prepare sauce. Melt butter or margarine in a saucepan; stir in flour and seasonings. Add milk or half and half all at once; stir until mixture thickens. Cool, stirring often; cover and refrigerate. To pack, stir sauce well; pour over frozen meat balls slowly so it flows between balls. Cover; pack into insulated bag. At mealtime, heat slowly to serving temperature. Yeild: About 6 servings.

IMPORTANT: Don't plan to store meat balls prepared this way for more than 1 to 3 days. For longer storage, balls need to be covered with a broth or gravy to retain their fine flavor.

If no freezer is available, prepare and combine well-chilled meat balls and sauce; chill well, cover and pack into insulated bag or portable refrigerator. Heat as directed above.



Vegetable dip

Cheesy Vegetable Dip

An interesting appetizer low in calories!
1 package (3 oz.) cream cheese, softened to room temperature
¼ cup (2 oz.) blue cheese, softened
2 tablespoons frozen lemonade concentrate, thawed and undiluted
1 teaspoon horseradish
1 tablespoon chopped green onions
Assorted fresh vegetables (cherry tomatoes, zucchini, green onions, mushrooms, celery, carrots, etc.)

In small mixer bowl, combine all ingredients except vegetables; beat until smooth and creamy. If desired, chill until served. Serve with assortment of fresh vegetables.

1 Cup.

Muffin Treats

Next time you're caught short with no dessert, raid your freezer and try these suggestions for unusually good and unexpectedly easy desserts. Frozen Muffin Rounds are used as a basis.

xxx

Double Apple Sundae

Scoop up vanilla ice cream and top with heated cinnamon-flavored apple sauce. Serve with Cinnamon-Apple Muffin Rounds.

Around the World Recipes

The following recipes are from a new booklet entitled "The World in your Kitchen." Published by the Department of Agriculture with a foreward written by Martha McHale, the book offers a variety of dishes from main meats to desserts. The booklet was sponsored by the Pa. Apple Marketing Association, The Pa. Rural Electric Association, the American Mushroom Institute and the Mushroom Processor's Association. The booklet can be found at most Extension Service offices.

xxx

Almond Chicken and Water Chestnuts

1-3 pound chicken
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
½ cup ground almonds
1½ cups sliced fresh mushrooms
½ cup sliced water chestnuts
2 tablespoons soy sauce

Disjoint and bone chicken. Cut into bite size pieces. Combine salt, pepper, and almonds and dip chicken pieces into mixture. Brown chicken pieces in three tablespoons fat. Add mushrooms, water chestnuts and soy sauce. Cook over low heat for 5 minutes.

xxx

Cherry Soup

3 cups ripe, tart pitted cherries
6 cups water
grated rind of 1 lemon
2 tablespoons lemon juice
½ cup sugar
1 tablespoon cornstarch
2 cups sweetened whipped cream

Cook 2 cups of the cherries in the water with lemon rind until they become very soft. Pour in a blender until smooth. Add the remaining cherries, lemon juice and sugar then thicken with cornstarch. Chill and top with whipped cream before serving.

xxx

Potato Puffs

4 large potatoes
2 eggs
1 cup milk
½ cup flour
salt to taste
1 tablespoon oil

Pare and grate raw potatoes. Throughly drain off liquid (reserve for use in gravy). Mix with eggs, milk, flour and salt to form dough. Heat fat in skillet. Drop ¼ cup dough at a time into fat and spread out to form small pancakes. Fry on both sides to a golden brown.

xxx

Eggs Benedict

4 poached eggs
1 cup Hollandaise sauce
4 rusks (or English muffins)
4 thin slices of grilled ham

Butter muffins or rusks and cover with ham. Poach the eggs in water to which two tablespoons of cider vinegar has been added. Trim the eggs and place them on the ham. Cover with Hollandaise and serve.

xxx

Hollandaise Sauce

4 egg yolks
1 stick butter softened
2 tablespoons water
salt and papper to taste
juice of ¼ lemon

In bottom of double boiler bring water to a very slow boil. In top half put egg yolks, salt and pepper, and beat with wire whisk until frothy. Add water slowly and continue beating as mixture warms. Add butter a small amount at a time and beat, but do not allow to melt. Remove from heat and beat in lemon juice. Pour over eggs.

xxx

Cheese Tortillas

4 cups sifted flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
3 ounces cream cheese
¼ pound butter
2 eggs

Sift flour with baking powder and mix with cheese which has been creamed throughly with a fork. Add butter and eggs mixing well. All mixture to stand 15 minutes. Roll very thin on a floured board and cut into 5 inch circles. On each cake, place 1 tablespoon filling fold over and fry in deep hot fat.

xxx

Chicken Filling

1 cup cooked chopped chicken
1 small onion chopped
1 small tomato chopped
⅛ teaspoon salt and pepper
2 tablespoons cooking oil

Saute all ingredients over moderate heat for five minutes.

Society 23

Farm Women Society 23 met recently at the Manor Brethren in Christ Church reception room with Society 9 as guests.

Mrs. Jay Charles called the meeting to order. Mrs. Ed Funk read Psa. 28 for the devotions.

It was voted to give $150.00 to the Farm and Home Center for a new piano, for the county project.

Plans are being made for a family Bowling Night on October 18 at Leola.

The deadline for tickets for the County Convention on Nov. 1, is October 22.

Joyce Burkholder from Goodwill Industries was the speaker for the evening. She gave a very informative talk of her work and responsibilities at Goodwill.

A social hour with refreshments climaxed the evening.

The October meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Robert Rohrer, Washington Boro R1.

Farm women share and show crafts at second annual domestic fair

Women in the farm societies have always been noted for their talents in crafts and domestic arts and the ladies of Farm Women Society 21 are no exception.

On Sept. 11, the members of Society 21 held their Second Annual Domestic and Fine Arts Fair at the home of Mrs. Miriam DeLong, Quarryville R1.

Chairladies for the event were Mrs. Joan Rohrer and Mrs. Lois Aument. Members and eight guests showed their skill at crafts and arts by both displaying their work and by giving several mini-demonstrations. The following individuals gave mini-workshops on the arts they have become proficient in: Cora Shank, magnetic owls; Joanne Roth, quilling; Labertha Tindall, corn husk dolls; Abbie Bradley, hanging baskets; Joan Rohrer, pine cone wreaths and scherenschnitte and Lois Aument, furniture refinishing.

Winners named in the display contests are as follows;

Here are the winners under the Sewing Division:

Children's garment

1. Arlene Kreider; 2 Joan Rohrer; 3 Brenda DeLong.

Suits

1. Hazel Aument; 2. Joanne Roth; 3. Arlene Kreider.

Dresses

1. Susan DeLong; 2. Joan Rohrer; 3. Miriam DeLong.

Other winners in sewing were Mary Jo Wood for a coat, Top-Alice Ressel, Slacks-Elizabeth Steinberg, Top and Skirt-Jerry Arrowsmith, Men's Coat-Alta Rudy, Jacket dress-Arlene Fox, Ties-Miriam DeLong.

Winners in the Needlework Division are as follows:

Crewel pictures

1. Joan Rohrer; 2. Arlene Kreider; 3. Jean Risk.

Pillows

1. Barbara Long for crewel; 2. Elizabeth Steinberg for needlepoint.

Pillows, crochet and knitted - Miriam Delong and Virginia Rineer; Afgans, knitted - Phyllis Clyman; crochet - Miriam DeLong and Abbie Bradley.

Shawls

1. Joanne Roth; 2. Miriam DeLong.

Other winners in needlework were Mary DeLong, Swedish Weaving; Accessories 1. Evelyn Landis; 2. Arlene Kreider; 3. Abbie Bradley.

Hanging Baskets winners were Abbie Bradley, Arlene Kreider and Labertha Tindall.

In the Bicentennial Celebration category, with expression in any medium, the winners were Alice Ressel, Miriam DeLong and Joan Rohrer.

Farm women who participated in the mini-demonstrations during the second annual Society 21 Domestic fair were (from left) Abbie Bradley, Labertha Tindall, Lois Aument, Joanne Roth and Joan Rohrer.

Under the Arts and Crafts, Joan Rohrer placed first in dried flower arrangements and Joanne Roth was second. Lois Aument and Ann Brown were winners in the decoupage category. In dried flowers under glass - first place went to Ann Brown, Second to Connie Groff and Third to Labertha Tindall. Pressed flowers under glass 1. Jean Risk; 2. Labertha Tindall; 3. Connie Groff.

Pine cone wreath winners were Joan Rohrer and Jerry Arrowsmith; Dolls (apple) Labertha Tindall; (corn husk doll) Labertha Tindall; (Amish) Hazel Aument; Fresh Flowers - Brenda DeLong; Labertha Tindall.

Prize winners in Fresh Vegetables were Connie Groff, Miriam DeLong, Hazel Aument, Alice Ressel, Labertha Tindall, Mary DeLong, and Joan Rohrer.

Refreshments were served by co-hostess, Evelyn Landis, Jean Risk. The group will meet next month at Stauffer's of Kissel Hill on October 9 at 7 p.m. for a workshop using barn boards and dried materials.

LADIES, HAVE YOU HEARD?

By Doris Thomas, Extension Home Economist

About Fusible Stretch Interfacings?

Fusible stretch interfacings are great for knit fabrics where you want support and body but you also want the stretch of knit fabric.

Do not confuse fusible webs with fusible interfacings. Webs are meant to bond two fabrics together and used for hems or to attach trimmings and as a sewing aid. The fusible interfacings add extra body support in garment areas where an interfacing is needed.

When selecting fusible interfacings, hold the interfacing under the fashion fabric to judge if the interfacing gives support without stiffness. Interfacing should not be heavier than the garment fabric. Before applying the fusible to your fabric, try a test swatch to judge if it gives the result you want.

Fusibles are available in light and heavy weight. Use the light weight for lightweight knits where you want some extra support. Select the heavier weight for heavier fabrics and where you want extra support such as in waistbands.

Be sure to buy enough interfacing so you can cut it as your pattern. Even though it appears to be non-woven, you must cut it as though there is a grainline if you want to take advantage of the stretch. Some patterns suggest a minimum yardage for interfacing, assuming it can be cut in any direction. However, some patterns are now suggesting the yardage for stretchable fusibles, as well as non-woven interfacings.

Remember that these interfacings stretch in one direction only. Since most knits stretch in the crosswise direction, take care to cut the interfacing so the stretch also is on the crosswise.

Fusible stretch interfacings come well equipped with direction sheets and for good reason. Follow the directions exactly for best results. Some fusibles require moist heat while others use dry heat only.

Before attaching interfacings to garment areas, trim away all seam allowances so they will not be sewn into seams. This will give a flatter seam.

When using fusibles on a collar, attach to the undercollar instead of top collar for a better roll and a smoother appearance.

Clues to Quality Furniture

When you shop for a desk or a chest, make sure you pull out the drawers to see how they're made. A drawer is often the best clue to quality in furniture construction. Here are some guidelines for checking quality construction details.

Are the joints on the corners of each drawer dovetailed? This means the boards are joined at the end by interlocking tenons cut in the shape of a dove's tail. This is a sign of quality.

Look inside each drawer. Surfaces should be smoothly sanded and coated with a finish. Turn the drawer over and examine the bottom. There should be a center guide built into the drawer bottom so that the drawer will slide smoothly. Drawers in medium-priced furniture move on noiseless nylon guides. Some drawers will even be made of warp-proof plastic with a wood front.

While you're looking at the bottom of the drawer, check to see whether it's fitted into grooves or just nailed onto the sides. A quality piece of furniture has drawer-bottoms fitted into grooves. Wood blocks or triangular wedges should hold the bottom firmly to the sides and add extra support and strength to the drawer.

Check the drawer pulls and other hardware to see if they're properly fastened. And check for added features such as dust panels between drawers and individual storage compartments within drawers. And if he's proud of his product, the manufacturer's name is often inside the drawer. If not, look underneath or on the back of the furniture piece. Quality furniture has the manufacturer's name on it.

Dauphin Society 1

The Dauphin County Society of Farm Women 1, had their monthly meeting on Sept. 9, 1975 at 7:30 p.m. at the home of Barbara Fisher. Greeters were 4 year old Miss Debbie Fisher and 7 year old Miss Beth Moffatt. Co-hostess for the evening was Kathy Moffatt who was also in charge of devotions.

Roll call was taken with 20 members answering with their favorite song.

Plans were made for the upcoming Fall Convention on October 11. Plans were also made to have a bake sale in the near future. Final arrangements were made for the Group's bus trip to Peddler's Village on Sept. 17. It was announced that one of our members, Lydia Rambler, had an unfortunate accident and broke her wrist. We do hope she will be completely mended very soon.

The theme for the evening was CHRISTMAS. The guest for the evening was Mrs. Mary Hepschmidt who gave a demonstration on making decorated Christmas balls. She also made a number of other items that were on display. A demonstration was also given by Barbara Fisher and Kathy Moffatt on items they made for the Christmas season. Samples of some of the items were presented to members of the Group. The highlight of the evening was a drawing for a beautiful handmade marble lamp. This was won by Mary Custer.

A very Merry Christmas was had by all even though it was the early part of September.

Farm Women Societies

Society 24

The Society of Farm Women 24 met at the American Golf Course, Groffdale, August 27, for a game of miniature golf. Later a business meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Lloyd Groff, Gordonville.

The September meeting will be entertaining patients at Harrisburg State Hospital. A rummage sale is being scheduled for the month of October.

Society 4

"Home Is Where the Hurt Is" a program on home safety was presented at the monthly meeting of Berks County Society of Farm Women 4 in the home of Esther Good, Boyertown R4.

The group will be celebrating its 15th anniversary in October. To mark the occasion a dinner and regular meeting will be held at Stahl's Steak House at 7:00 p.m. on Oct. 7.

Ida Risser

It is difficult sometimes to realize that the fall season has arrived. When I sweep dead leaves off the walk, see the heavy head of the sunflowers or smell the fragrance of celery plants in the garden then I know fall is around the corner.

But, when I look at the nest of baby bunnies that Cindy tends or see the mother duck with her 13 little yellow fluff balls then I think of spring. At any rate, it is a busy time of harvesting and canning grapes, tomatoes, pears and pickles.

xxx

Many people from other counties come to fish in the Conestoga but we seldom take time to try it. Recently Kenneth, our oldest son, was home and took the younger children. Cindy was very pleased to catch her first fish - a delicious catfish.

Of course I had to tell her about the time I threw in my line and as soon as it hit the water I felt a tug and pulled it out only to find two big fish - one on each hook. What a thrill!

Last week a man was fishing from his boat and decided to step into the water with his hip boots, Much to his surprise he stepped in up to his neck and had to drive home quite wet indeed.

xxx

The other Sunday a farm couple hunted us up (and I do mean hunted us up.) to visit and see our new kitchen. I think they were properly impressed after they finally arrived. Neighbors took them back of their barns and said "see the silos well you can't get there from here." You see our farm is surrounded by a loop of the Conestoga and therefore there is only one way in and that is a dead end road.

Never have I met a man who is a greater tease with a bit of satire thrown in. After he'd seen the kitchen he ask me why I don't let my husband buy new machinery - as he looked at the harvester and brand new manure spreader. And then, when he was leaving he thanked me for filling his car with flies as now he'd have a new breed to work with in his dairy operation. Just kidding.

NEBA open house attracted over 1300

TUNKHANNOCK - The most successful event, according to NEBA spokesmen. Despite the threatening morning weather, over 1300 people turned out to see the sires, and to meet the people who operate their cooperative. The morning program included tours of the facilities, also collection and herd analysis demonstrations.

The luncheon entertainment by the "Southern Stringbenders", a Bluegrass Band was enjoyed by all as was the Ox Roast buffet.

Sire Power General Manager, W. Lewis Campbell reported on the current activities at NEBA and Sire Power. Campbell stressed the genetic capabilities of Sire Power sires. Twelve plus 1,000 lb. predicted difference milk bulls, are available from Sire Power, including six Holsteins and six colored breed sires. He also mentioned the importance of the Sire Power Young Sire Program, designed to provide top genetics for the future.

Commenting on a serious problem, Campbell warned that the extensive use of unproven farm bulls, could result in a lack of genetic progress, and a major loss of income to dairymen. He stated facts, that indicated the superiority of A.I. sired progeny over-A.I. sired progeny. He also stressed other advantages of A.I., stating, "The danger of the bulls is eliminated, and the danger of spreading reproductive diseases is also greatly reduced. Research has developed semen with excellent conception capabilities, and breeding records are maintained with A.I. Most important, with today's selection of top plus progeny proved sires, a dairyman can obtain maximum genetic progress and a fair profit for his hard work and investment."

Following Campbell's presentation a parade of Sire Power bulls was presented by J. Lloyd Ebersole, director of sire development.

Hereford field day slated

KANSAS CITY, MO. - Plans have been announced by the American Hereford Association and the American Junior Hereford Association for the staging of the "Spirit of 76" All-American Field Day, July 23-24. 1976 at Jo-Su-Li Farms, Colquitt, Georgia. Jo-Su-Li, located in southwestern Gerogia 150 miles from Atlanta, is a large diversified operation whose primary enterprises include Herefords, soybeans, peanuts, and a modern farrow to finish swine operation. For several years an industry pacesetter in the southeastern United States, Jo-Su-Li Supplies a major portion of the commercial bulls used in that area's rapidly expanding beef and cow herds. In recent years, the operation has also become the leading exporter of Herefords to Costa Rica and the surrounding Central and South American regions.

Upon confirmation of the upcoming event, Jo-Su-Li owner, Clarence Cross, emphasized the fact that the program for the two day national event will focus upon a very important segment of the overall beef industry as it spotlights the role of the commercial cattleman in today's purebred livestock breeding programs.

Also to be included in the many activities planned in conjunction with the major event are a national junior Hereford showmanship contest, a livestock judging contest, and ranch tours of the Jo-Su-Li operations.

Cattle dip approved

WASHINGTON - The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) has amended federal regulations to allow the pesticide Prolate to be used as a dip for cattle exposed to and affected by psoroptic cattle scabies.

Permitted dips for scabies include heated lime sulphur, toxaphene, and coumophos (Co-Ral).

Officials of USDA's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS) said Prolate has been registered by the Environmental Protection Agency for use not only against scabies but also against grubs - another costly disease of cattle - lice, hornflies, cattle ticks and southern cattle ticks.

This action follows a series of trials conducted by the Department and Thuron Industries since 1973, which demonstrated that Prolate - an organo-phosphorus compound - retains its effectiveness in vat solutions. Some pesticides do not have this characteristic and can be used only in sprays. An additional factor is the fact that Prolate is biogradable - that is, it breaks down naturally into its basic elements - and therefore is not harmful to the environment.

The amendment became effective upon publication in the Federal Register on Sept. 11.

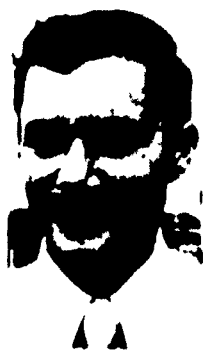
FACTS FOR DAIRYMEN



by N. Alan Blair
Associate County Agricultural Agent

THE PRODUCTION INFLUENCE ON DAIRY INCOME

It's not too surprising to find that better than average milk production is important in obtaining higher incomes on dairy farms. The extent of this influence of production on income is greater than you might expect.

The 1974 farm business records of 1,025 Pennsylvania dairy farmers indicated the influence of this factor on income. Farmers with milk sold per cow averaging slightly under 8,000 pounds had labor and management incomes averaging about $48 per cow. Those farmers averaging slightly over 14,400 pounds per cow had incomes averaging almost $238 per cow.

Those farmers in the highest production group, averaging 15,700 pounds milk sold per cow had average labor and management incomes of $236 per cow. The average of all farms was $160 per cow. While the highest production groups had the highest incomes per cow, the available data did not make it possible to indicate the optimum production level for specific farm.

Only the 14,000 to 15,000 production group had estimated total production costs per hundred-weight of milk less than the price of milk received. The four production groups selling less than 12,000 pounds of milk per cow had production costs 9 to 31 percent above the price received. These costs included cash costs, depreciation, six percent interest on owner's investment, operator's labor at $3 per hour and unpaid labor at $2 per hour.

Don't be complacent with your mediocre production. This may be the incentive you need to get better before you get bigger.

BRUCELLOSIS - RELEARNING OUR LESSONS

Vermont was one of the first states in the U.S. to be declared brucellosis free, and for years there was no evidence of the disease in the state in spite of good surveillance efforts.

Cattle owners heard so little about brucellosis that they became complacent about it and bought cattle through dealers from out of state and Canadian herds. Undoubtedly, most of the cattle had health charts, but many of them were infected or exposed to brucellosis before they reached Vermont.

Appearnace of the disease in Vermont herds in the past few months prompted an all out crash program to seek out infected herds. Already 35 infected herds have been found by USDA veterinarians.

Pennsylvania has the same problem with reintroduction of brucellosis. Infected and exposed cattle have been brought into Pennsylvania herds. Dr. Sam Guss, our Extension Veterinarian, from Penn State, advises those who buy cattle regardless of their source or vaccination status to isolate them and have them tested negative for tuberculosis and brucellosis before exposing your herd to them.

To do less than that is like playing Russian Roulette with your herd.

Lancaster 4-H Horse Club members receive honors

Lancaster County 4-H Horse Club members made an excellent showing in events Saturday at the District 6 4-H Horse Show at the Rygate Show Grounds near Carlisle.

Out of the 58 placings for eligibility to the state show on November 13-14 at the Farm Show Building in Harrisburg, 10 Lancaster County 4-H'ers captured 12 berths. There were 252 4-H members from the nine county region vieing for these placings.

Leading the way was Rick Buckwalter, Denver, R1, with a first place in Stock Seat Equitation, Junior Division and a second place in Western Pleasure Horses; Daryl Friedrichs, Hunsicker Road, Lancaster with a first place in Saddle Seat Pleasure Ponies and a fourth place in Saddle Seat Equitation, Junior Division; Elizabeth Abel, Smith Drive, Quarryville, first in Working Hunter Ponies; Heidi Bailey, Quarryville, R3, and Carol Stinson, Strasburg, R1, first place in Pair Class; Kim Bernhardt, Main Street Manheim, second in Pole Bending; Randy Glick, Main Street, Leola, first in Clover Leaf Barrel Race; Natalie Immel R3, Lititz, second in Stock Seat Equitation-Senior Division; Karin Risser, Stevens, R1, first in Western Riding Contest and Robin Tshudy, Fulton Street, Manheim, first in Open Trail Class.

Other county 4-H members winning ribbons for their efforts were: Sue Baker, Stony Battery Road, Lancaster; Cindy Burkey, No. Queen St., Lancaster; James Glick, Leola; Cherri Gochnauer, Centerville Road, Lancaster; Karen Hinderdeer, Kayo Avenue, Lancaster; Debbie Huber, Poplar Street, Columbia; Brian Immel, R3, Lititz; George Metzler, East Petersburg, Terry Miller, Corry Avenue, Lancaster; Terri Mummau, Colebrook Road, Manheim; Deb Myers, Charlotte Avenue, Manheim; Betsy Reese, Urban Drive, Lancaster; Dee Dee Rice, Conestoga; Lori and Pam Sammons, East Petersburg Road, Lancaster; Susan Slater, Fruitville Pike, Lancaster; Lesley Winpenny, Millcross Rd., Lancaster; and Greg Ziegler, Wabank Road, Lancaster.

The classes at the District contest gave members an opportunity to display their skills in horsemanship and ability to groom a horse for showing.

The primary purpose of the 4-H Horse program are to develop riding skills; gain self-confidence by competing in shows; receive training in leadership and citizenship; and learning the meaning of responsibility by caring for an animal.

Retirement seminar scheduled

On October 6, 1975, National Central Bank is planning a "Retirement Seminar" which is open to all retired citizens in Lancaster County. The seminar will be held at the Lancaster Hilton Inn, beginning at 10:00 a.m. and adjourning before 12:00 Noon.

A representative of the county Council on the Aging will discuss the variety of government programs designed specifically for retired people and a criminologist from the Pennsylvania State Police will give some advice on how to avoid becoming a victim of the increasing number of crimes aimed at retired people. Several of the Bank's officers will discuss topics such as tax problems unique to retired people, the importance of estate planning, and banking social security checks.

No reservations will be required and there is no registration charge.

Learn How To Save 3 To 7% On Feed Costs...

The FEEDSAVER™

Keenco's new FEEDSAVER is the first truly controlled feeding system. It's all new — both mechanically and in principle.

FEEDSAVER doesn't use a chain. Instead, a traveling hopper rides above each Triple "A" Line cage row As it moves along it meters a thin ribbon of feed in the trough

You control and restrict the amount of feed distributed according to a pre-determined plan

The plan increases feeding efficiency — more eggs per pound of feed And, since there's never more than a minimal amount of feed in the trough, billing out is practically eliminated. No feed separation either. All birds get a complete ration.

With feed costs running about 67% of the cost of each dozen eggs, it's easy to see how the FEEDSAVER System could produce a healthier profit for you

We have a new idea in egg collection, too. A whole new front end on Triple "A" Line which gives you cleaner eggs, more accurate counting, and step-saving efficiency

Of course, we've retained the patented, bird-shaped Keenco Contour Cage and the same watering, ventilation, egg collection, and manure removal systems that have made the Keenco Triple "A" Line Automated Cage Layer System the leader in productivity. And don't forget our TOTAL HELP program, the program that helps you with planning, financing, building, operation and training

Berks COUNTY DHIA MONTHLY REPORT

The registered and grade Holstein herd at the Wernersville State Hospital topped the Berks County DHIA summary for August by producing an average of 1.90 pounds of butterfat per cow per day during the testing period. Second place went to Muddy Creek Farm, which averaged 1.83 pounds of butterfat per cow per day.

Ray E. Bicksler's "Sparkie," a seven year old Holstein, produced the top individual record in the county last month with her output of 32,230 pounds of milk and 1,048 pounds of butterfat. Second highest record for the month belonged to "Donna," a six year old Holstein in the Ken Stutzman herd. She produced 22,113 pounds of milk and 847 pounds of butterfat.

The following is the Berks County DHIA Report for the month of August, 1975. Only those herds averaging 1.5 pounds per day or over are listed:

Salvage ban imposed on goat disease

NEW YORK - Sheep and goats that have been exposed to scrapie - a disease of the nervous system - can no longer be slaughtered for human food, the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) announced.

The action was taken as a precautionary measure by USDA's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS), pending further research on whether this disease can be transmitted naturally to other animals or man.

In addition, APHIS officials announced that the conditions under which federal indemnities can be paid to livestock owners for their losses from this disease - as well as the rates for such payments - were being broadened.

"There is no evidence to date that scrapie can be transmitted to humans who come in contact with either infected or exposed animals, or who eat meat from such animals," Dr. Mulhern stressed. "However, since these laboratory experiments, showing that subhuman primates are susceptible, raise some questions in our minds relative to the immunity of humans, we believe the safest course is to ban for human food any salvage of meat from affected or exposed animals, pending further research," he said.

Scrapie is a virus disease occuring naturally in sheep and goats, that causes progressive degeneration of the animal's central nervous system.

It can be transmitted from one animal to another, and the virus can incubate in an affected animal up to 42 months - or even longer - before symptoms appear. These symptoms are itching, loss of coordination and a general decline in health - ending in death of the animal up to six months or longer after symptoms appear.

The disease was first discovered in the United States in 1947, and 207 flocks in some 31 states subsequently have been found infected. An eradication program was initiated by state and federal animal health officials in 1952, resulting in a gradual decrease in the number of cases from a high of 22 in 1956 to only two infected flocks so far this year one each in Illinois and West Virginia.

-Sheep and goats exposed to scrapie or directly related by bloodlines to infected animals may no longer be quarantined or maintained under surveillance; rather, they must be destroyed in such a manner as to prevent the meat from being used for human food.

- Such animals will be appraised and owners idemnified for their losses up to the new rate of $40 per head for grade animals and $90 per head for pure-bred animals. Until the change, owners could recover some of their losses by sending exposed animals to slaughter and be paid indemnities of a maximum of $25 for grade animals and $75 for purebred animals.

GRAIN PRE-SERV*
(LIQUID)

PROTECT ALL YOU RAISE — EASY TO USE

When others stop for drying, or must sell at harvest, you'll continue to harvest and have flexibility in marketing for feed or food.

Advantages of Grain Pre-Serv

- Use on food or feed grains
- Reduce dry matter loss
- No mold activity
- Preserve full feeding value
- No heating
- Reduce field loss
- Utilize present storage
- Flexibility in marketing
- Broad-spectrum inhibition
- Combines three acids

Disadvantages of Drying

+ Investment
+ Depreciation and repairs
+ Fuel and electricity
+ Extra labor
+ Transportation
+ Shrinkage

Disadvantages of Other Preservatives

+ Can only be used on feed grains
+ Large volume required per ton
+ Complex equipment
+ Narrow spectrum inhibition
+ Only one or two acids utilized

LEBANON COUNTY DHIA MONTHLY REPORT

August 1975

A cow in the herd of Norman Kline had the highest production of butterfat for the month of August. Tiny produced 920 pounds of fat with 24,986 pounds of milk.

Second high was Joyce in the herd of Isaac E. Zimmerman. The cows produced 898 pounds of fat and 22,397 pounds of milk.

Willow Maple Farm's herd had the highest herd average with 1.86 pounds of fat with the herd of Isaac Zimmerman placing second with 1.82 pounds of fat.

The Lebanon County Dairy Herd Improvement Association records of tests on county cows with over 60 pounds of fat in August are as Follows:

Farmers on 'front line' of energy crisis

Farmers, deeply concerned with the high cost of energy, are on "the front line" when it comes to feeling the effect of every rise in fuel costs.

D. B. Barlow, Vice President, Chevron Chemical Company and General Manager, Ortho Division, feels inefficient use of energy can hurt agriculture more than any segment of American society.

Barlow believes that agriculture will have to learn to live with rising energy costs, but it can take steps to lessen the impact. "The cost line for energy is on a longter, upward path regardless of occasional dips," Barlow declares.

"Eliminating just one tillage operation will reduce fuel consumption by about 10 percent," the Chevron executive declares. He calls attention to a recent reduced tillage study conducted in Missouri which concluded that in that state alone farmers could save up to 18 million gallons of fuel a year by reducing tillage.

For its part the fertilizer industry is making every effort to increase its efficiency, according to Barlow. The goal is to produce greater quantities of fertilizer for less energy cost. Last year the industry, according to the Fertilizer Institute, increased production by about 5 percent, in spite of natural gas curtailment and other problems.

"All growers are concerned with rising costs of agricultural production involving equipment, labor, feight, capital, and taxes," says Barlow. The cost of manufacturing and delivering fertilizers is up. A major cause of the rise in these costs is the increased cost of natural gas used to procude nitrogen fertilizer, and the greater energy cost burdens of mining, refining and producing other fertilizers.

Barlow sees little hope for reducing the costs of energy even if the United States is successful over the next decade in achieving increased self-sufficiency. If present trends continue, more than 50 percent of our oil needs will come from sources beyond our border by 1985 Imported pertoleum will cost more and there is no avoiding that grim fact, Barlow points out.

Energy prices have leveled off to some extent but they still represent a major cost for most growers. There is no doubt growers will have to learn to live with higher production costs, which is true in any industry. In agriculture, these higher costs will have to come back in higher food prices.

About 80 gallons of fuel are required to raise the average acre of corn. Growers could better this performance by managing farm wastes, practicing precision agriculture, improving usage of fertilizer and other chemicals, and by employing energy-saving shortcuts.

"Even at today's higher prices, fertilizer is the best investment a farmer can make," Barlow declares. In his view increased crop yeilds will generally return to the grower his fertilizer investment several fold.

"And we need all-out farm productivity because farm commodities are about the only products that this nation can produce in such overwhelming volume to compete 'hands down' in world markets. Our crop growing superiotity is needed to help solve the nation's critical balance of trade deficit."

He concludes with the caution that the fuel shortage has eased, but that this is just a temporary situation "The long-term trend is toward increasing fuel usage and costs." He advises growers to give careful attention to their energy expeditures and to put cost-cutting methods into practice now.

Order 2 reports record milk price

NEW YORK - A uniform farm price of $9.00 per hundredweight (46.5 quarts) for August milk deliveries to pool handlers under the New York-New Jersey marketing orders was announced by Thomas A. Wilson, market administrator. This is the highest price in the history of the market. The uniform price was $8.33 in July 1975 and $7.95 in August 1974.

The butterfat differential was 9.6 cents for each tenth of a pound of fat above or below 3.5 percent.

Receipts from dairy producers totaled 751,502,369 pounds, 3.8 percent or 29,413,286 pounds less than in August 1974, Mr. Wilson reported. Handlers utilized 377,336,175 pounds of these receipts or 50.2 percent for fluid milk products (Class I). In August 1974 the Class I utilization percentage was 49.9. For August, handlers paid $9.51 for Class I milk compared with $8.71 a year ago.

Mr. Wilson stated that receipts on bulk tank units were 720,978,783 pounds, down 18,276,328 pounds. He added that this was 95.9 percent of the pool, compared to 94.7 percent a year ago.

A total of 370,347,190 pounds, or 51.4 percent, of tank milk was used as Class II and was subject to the transportation credit which amounted to $370,347.23.

Producers with tank milk numbered 18,633, a decrease of 1.9 percent. The administrator said that the total number of producers in the pool was 20,242, a loss of 4.3 percent. Average daily deliveries per producer rose 8 pounds to 1,198 pounds.

Pool bulk tank units decreased 15 to 200. Reports from 115 handlers were used to compute the pool, 8 less than in August 1974. There were 104 handlers with producer milk, a loss of 3.

The gross value to dairy farmers of August deliveries was $67,722,598.28. Mr. Wilson explained that this included differentials required to be paid to dairy farmers but not voluntary premiums or deductions authorized by the farmer.

All prices quoted are for milk at 3.5 percent butterfat received within the 201-210 mile zone from New York City.

Richest Angus show scheduled

ST. JOSEPH, MO. - Angus breeders will stage their 1975 National Angus Show at the American Royal in Kansas City on November 11 and 12, reports Lloyd D, Miller, executive secretary of the American Angus Association. Advance entries, which close October 1, indicate it will be the largest display of Angus at the Royal in many years.

Special premiums offered by both the American Royal and American Angus Association bring total prize money for the event to $20,000. First prize in each class will be worth $150. This will make the Royal the richest Angus show in the United States this year.

Several special events are planned in connection with the National Show, reports Dean Hurlbut, director of activities for the Association. Included will be a portrait presentation and recognition of Ed Stout, Boonville, Missouri, for his nearly 20 years of loyal leadership in the Angus business and outstanding service to the livestock induarty as secretary of the Missouri Angus Association.

The activities will begin with an Angus reception at the Hilton Inn in downtown Kansas City on Monday evening, November 10, from 5 to 7. The Angus heifer show will be in the judging arena at the Royal beginning at 8 a.m., Tuesday, November 11.

On Tuesday evening will be the gala Angus Banquet and National Angus Ball in the ballroom of the Hilton Inn. The social hour will be from 5:30 to 6:30. The banquet will begin at 6:30 and the ball at 8:30. The major part of the banquet program will be devoted to honoring Ed Stout and unveiling an oil portrait of Stout that will be presented to his family.

The Angus bulls will be judged beginning at 8 a.m., Wednesday in the Royal Arena. The stocker and feeder show is at 1:30; the Angus pen bull show starts at 2 p.m. with the Angus Best Six Head Parade at 8:30 during intermission at the rodeo in the new Kemper Arena.

A block of rooms has been reserved for Angus breeders at the Hilton Inn which is the official National Angus Show headquarters. Reservations for these rooms must be made through the Activities Department of the American Angus Association.

Entries for the National Angus Show close October 1. They must be submitted through the American Angus Association, and entry blanks are available upon request.

The junior events at the American Royal this year are the week following the open show. 4-H steers will be checked in at 8 a.m. on Monday, November 17. The steer show is the following day with the selection of the grand champion steer set for noon, November 18. The Junior Angus Heifer Show will begin at 8 a.m. on Thursday, November 20.

Seedlings offered for sale

HARRISBURG - The Department of Environmental Resources announced today that now is the time to order tree seedlings for planting next spring.

Seedlings purchased from the Department are to be planted on idle land for watershed protection and as a source of future wood products. An additional benefit is the suitable habitat trees provide for birds and wildlife.

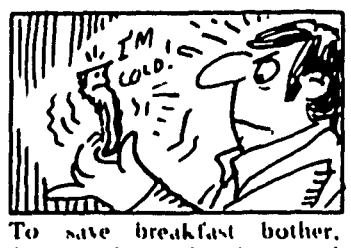
The seedling program is administered by the Department's Bureau of Forestry and anyone with one and one half acres or more of land, suitable for planting a minimum order of 1,000 seedlings, is eligible to participate.

Samuel S. Cobb, State Forester and Director of DER's Bureau of Forestry, noted that this program represents an opportunity for land owners to help themselves develop future forests which eventually will benefit everyone, including generations to come.

Available for sale are various pines, spruce, larch and some hardwood species, all recommended by experienced foresters for development into productive forests. The only obligation the landowner has in purchasing the seedlings is that they be planted for reforestation purposes.

According to law, seedlings purchased from the Department may not be planted as windbreakers or for ornamental purposes including Christmas trees.

For additional information on the program, and for the necessary application, write to: Nurseries, Department of Environmental Resources, P.O. Box 1467, Harrisburg, Pa. 17120.



To save breakfast bother, fry your bacon by the pound and freeze it in plastic containers. In the morning, simply reheat a few strips in the broiler or toaster oven. It works for sausage, too.

United Egg Producers support export proposal

DECATUR, GA. - The United Egg Producers Board of Directors, in a special meeting called recently in Chicago, gave endoresement to a national plan which will permit U.E.P. to become more involved in the international trade of eggs and egg products. The plan was presented by the Marketing Committee and was unanimously accepted by the Board.

John Wallace, U.E.P. President, said the plan will establish a mechanism through which U.E.P. could bid for and fill large export orders for eggs and egg products. The plan, however, is contingent upon the endoresement of a majority of egg producer members of U.E.P. and the formalizing of final plans by the Marketing Committee. The Committee must establish the mechanics of the program whereby U.E.P. members across the country can participate.

Wallace noted that one of the problems the U.S. has experienced in the international trade of eggs, egg products, and fowl is the inability of any single egg producing or processing firm to bid on large export orders and contract for future delivery with any degree of certainty. They said the U.E.P. plan would meet these obstacles.

"Many countries are seeking eggs, egg products, and fowl in large orders to help meet the high protein needs of their citizens," Wallace said. "It is very difficult for any one company to put together an order for 50 to 100 carloads of eggs for immediate delivery or bid on exports at some future date. If we can meet these problems, through cooperative action, we will aid both the high protein needs of these foreign buyers and the U.S. balance of trade.

- For Those Who Care Enough to Want the Very Best -

Eastern wants milk prices tied to production costs

SYRACUSE, N.Y. - A program has been developed by Eastern Milk Producers, to upgrade the Northeast's faltering farm economy, according to John C. York, the cooperative's general manager.

Testifying before a Congressional Hearing held by Congressman Donald J. Mitchell at Herkimer Community College in Herkimer, N.Y. on September 23, York outlined problems depressing the income of dairy farmers in the Northeast and recommended ways of correcting them.

York was quoted as saying, "New York-New Jersey Federal Order blend prices fell below year earlier levels in each of the months of September 1974 through May of this year. These declines have ranged from a low of minus 16 cents in October 1974, to a high of minus $1.05 in April of 1975. April's price was 12.1 percent below April of 1974.

While prices for the balance of 1975 are expected to be above the same months for 1974, this is partly due to the fact that the 1974 prices themselves were unrealistically low. It is expected that the average price for 1975 will show only moderate improvement over 1974 unless further action is taken to raise prices.

While costs of dairy farming have been increasing for many years, they have been going up at an accelerated rate since mid-1972. The USDA Prices paid by Farmers index for July 1975 stands at 86 percent above 1967 levels. The July index was 10.7 percent above July 1974, which in turn was 15.1 percent above July 1973. These figures indicate, in order to keep pace with increases in costs, the July 1967 blend of $4.99 should have increased 86 percent up to $9.28 in July of this year. Dairy farmers in the New York-New Jersey market, however, received $8.33 or 95 cents less than was necessary to cover increased costs of production.

If the prices paid index continues to rise at its present rate, it will reach about 190 by October. Applying this index to the October 1967 New York-New Jersey blend of $5.64 would yield a price of $10.72. Instead, however, New York-New Jersey market dairy farmers can expcet a blend price of only about $9.56 in October, $1.13 over last year, but still more than $1.10 less than increases in costs since 1967.

Similar cost price relationships are evident in other Federal order markets in the Northeast. In general, prices in the northeastern markets for the first six months of 1975 have averaged 8½ percent below 1974, while costs have averaged 11½ percent highers."

The dairy leader urged reintroduction of an economic milk pricing formula which would relate the Class I (bottled) price to the proportion of milk used for Class I purposes in a market and the wholesale price index for all commodities. This was the computing method used prior to the Minnestoa-Wisconsin pricing series now in effect.

York added that Eastern had proposed a bill in Congress which would accomplish the above result and provides for use of such economic factors to reflect general economic conditions, consumers' ability to pay and producers' change in costs of production, as well as a supply-demand adjustment factor. He strongly urged the bill's enactment.

According to York, the current squeeze between prices paid and prices received is improverishing dairy farmers, and causing many to abandon farming to the ultimate detriment of consumers of milk and dairy products.

York stressed that milk producers are large users of oil and oil products in their operations. In light of rapidly rising fuel costs, York proposed that milk producers be exempt from import fees of $2.00 a barrel on crude oil and from base fees of $.60 to $.63 on finished product.

Unless dairymen can recover their inflated costs caused by higher oil prices, dairy farming in this part of the country would deteriorate to the point of no return, and consumer prices would zoom out-of-sight, observed York.

York said the milk support price, historically announced by the U.S. Secretary of Agriculture once a year at the end on March, should be recomputed at least twice a year. He charged that it is an injustice to hold prices producers receive at the same price for twelve months when, during the same period, prices of things producers buy rise dramatically.

This year's wheat export deals including the recent sales of ten million tons of grain to Russia could boomerang, causing skyrocketing feed costs to America's farmers, York noted. Eastern Milk Producers will continue its efforts in monitoring grain exports and urging Congress to keep vigil on adequate grain storage supplies.

Farmers cannot stand unrealistically high feed costs in the Northeast again this winter, concluded York.

President Ford calls for grain export stability

WASHINGTON — President Ford has taken notice that the Soviet Union's grain purchases have been highly erratic in recent years and their effect has therefore been a condition of uncertainty for the American farmer — and other segments of our economy.

In a statement released by the White House Press Secretary last week, the President cited the following table and made the remarks which follow it.

Years	Feed Grains	Wheat	Total
	(in millions of metric tons)
1971-72	2.8	0.0	2.8
1972-73	4.2	9.5	13.7
1973-74	3.4	2.7	6.1
1974-75	.8	1.0	1.8
1975-76 (to date)	5.8	4.4	10.2

The considerable variation in large bulk purchases by a single state trading company contrasts with the more steady purchases of these grains by such customers as commercial enterprises in Japan and Western Europe. Because these purchases are highly variable and uncertain, American farmers have not been able to count on this market in their planting intentions to the extent they have on other foreign purchasers. Moreover, highly volatile and unpredictable purchases emerging after the crop planting tend to contribute to price instability.

It would contribute materially to the interests of the American farmer, workers in the transportation industries and American consumers, as well as be in the interests of our customers abroad, if we could develop a longer-term and more certain purchase understanding with the Soviet Union, providing among other features for certain minimum purchases.

It will take some time to explore the possibilities of a long-term agreement. The country must have a new procedure for the sale of feed grains and wheat to such a large state purchaser as the Soviet Union. I am sending representatives to the Soviet Union at once. I am also establishing a Food Committee of the Economic Policy Board-National Security Council in my office to monitor these developments.

We have already sold a volume of wheat and feed grains which will take four to six months to ship at maximum rates of transportation operations. Accordingly, there is no immediate necessity to decide about further future sales at this time, and I am extending the present moratorium on sales to the Soviet Union until mid-October when additional information on world supplies and demands is available. This extended period should provide the opportunity to negotiate for a long-term agreement with the Soviet Union.

Under these circumstances, I am requesting the longshoremen to resume voluntarily the shipping of American grain while these discussions go forward, and the matter can be reassessed in the middle of October.

It will be necessary to complete the negotiations over shipping rates in order to make it possible for American ships to carry wheat and to assure that at least one-third of the tonnage is carried in American ships, as provided by the agreement with the Soviet Union which expires on December 31, 1975, which is also under renegotiation.

Maryland pork producers face election

ANNAPOLIS - Maryland's pork producers will vote November 14 on a mandatory checkoff program for pork production promotion, marketing and research.

The election, to be held by paper ballot, at County Extension offices throughout the state from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., was set after Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Young D. Hance certified the Maryland Pork Producers Association to hold it. MPPA had petitioned Secretary Hance to call for the election.

For the past several years, the checkoff program, known as "Nickles for Profit," has been done on a voluntary basis bewteen participating pork producers and cooperating livestock dealers, auction market managers, and slaughter plant operators.

The election, if a favorable vote is cast, would make mandatory the five-cent per animal checkoff. However, if a producer still chooses not to participate he will be able to request a refund of assessments in writing within 30 days of the sale of the animals.

The "Nickles For Profit" program is used in many farm states and is similar to other successful producer assessments long used for other agricultural commodities.

Anyone with questions regarding the program is invited to contact the Maryland Pork Producers Association at Box 372, Taneytown, Maryland 21787; or by calling MPPA president Franklin Feeser at 301-848-6280; or Division of Marketing, Md. Dept. of Agriculture, Annapolis, 301-267-1181.

Pork production in Maryland is an expanding agricultural industry with approximately 225,000 pigs being sent to market from Maryland farms yearly. Biggest counties by production are Worcester, Wicomico, St. Marys, Queene Annes, Carroll, Washington and Talbot.

Poultry health symposium at NEPPCO show

HERSHEY, PA. - An up-to-the minute review of effective on-farm measures being used to combat several of poultrydom's worst disease will be a highlight of the 44th anniversary gathering of the Northeastern Poultry Producers Council.

Three field experts will focus on the battle against mycotoxins, Gumboro and on MS and MG, reporting on the industry's most effective weapons against all known stages of the disease. The morning-long poultry health symposium will share the attention of participants along with a dozen other special sessions and events at the three-day NEPPCO Exposition at the new Hershey Convention Center October 21 through 23.

The war against MS and MG breaks in commercial layers, through medication programs or controlled exposure, including experimental inoculations, will be detailed by Dr. L. Dwight Schwartz, professor, Veterinary Science Extension, The Pennsylvania State University.

Latest developments in the world of mycotoxins, including ammoniation procedures, will be explored by Stanley B. Smith, poultry nutritionist, Agway, Inc.

And the changing approach to the fight against Gumboro is the topic of Dr. Franklin K. Wills, associate director, Sterwin Laboratories, Inc. who will outline immunosuppression and the importance of parental immunity.

"The after-effects in susceptible chicks are as important as the disease itself in this study," says Dr. Wills. "We're concerned about its relationship to dermatitis, which chicks become more susceptible to. We'll talk about the immunization of breeder stock at the exposition, too."

The trio will divide the topic, "poultry Health, A Practical Approach to Current Problems" on the morning of Thursday, Oct. 23, designated as "Producer's Days" at the big annual show.

Other educational programs will cover topics ranging from the strong effects of international factors on the U.S. poultry industry to a review of high-impact national events facing the poultry and egg world. On display, as usual, will be an array of the newest in poultry products, equipment and services in the bright, new Convention Center, as well as special youth and ladies programs, the big market egg and carton show and a number of social events.

Information on early show registration is available at NEPPCO offices, 322 Oxford Valley Road, Fairless Hills, Pa. 19030, telephone 215-547-0190. Room reservations should be made directly with the Hershey Motor Lodge.

Botany course scheduled

There is still time to register for a five-week course in Botanical Terminology to be offered this fall at Longwood Gardens, Kennett Square. Dr. Robert J. Armstrong, plant geneticist at Longwood Gardens, will define and illustrate the terms used in the discussion and description of plants. This is a basic course aimed at the amateur - you won't have to know much about plants to enjoy it. Two sections of the course are offered, one meeting from 10 to 11 a.m., the other from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. on October 2, 9, 16, 23 and 30. There is a course fee of $20.00. For registration materials and more information call 215-388-6741, ext. 242, or write Longwood Gardens, Kennett Square, Pennsylvania 19348.

Angus champs chosen

TIMONIUM - Angus breeders from five Eastern states paraded their top Angus breeding cattle before judge William Riahel, North Platte, Nebraska, during the 1975 Maryland State Fair held here recently.

The event attracted a strong showing of cattle and grand champion bull honors went to an entry of William J. Warren, Furlong, Pennsylvania. His senior and grand champion bull was Black Marshall 3127.

Devereux-Soleil Farm, Downington, Pennsylvania, came in with the junior and grand champion heifer. She was D.S. Favorite 484.

Zeuswyn Farm, Culpeper, Virginia, exhibited both reserve grand champions. Their reserve senior and reserve grand champion bull was Zeuswyn Ideal 16 and their summer and reserve grand champion heifer was Zeuswyn Joana Erica 22. They also entered the bull calf champ, Zeuswyn Ideal 64 and the reserve summer champion bull, Seuswyn Ideal 58. In the group classes, they entered both get-of-sire winners, offspring of Ideal Bourbon.

Hillcrest Farm, Delaplane, Virginia, exhibited the heifer calf champ, Shyway Miss 4; reserve summer champion female, Hillcrest Lady Bell and the summer champion bull, Hillcrest Blueblood Lad.

Other winners in the bull show included the junior champion, Marshall G 2564 shown by Conrad Grove, Dowingtown, Pennsylvania, and the reserve junior champion, George Gammer 37 shown by John and Lee Canby, Brookville, Maryland.

The reserve heifer calf champ was Barbara of Tartan 84 entered by Danny Ogle, Austinville, Virginia, and the reserve junior champion heifer was Mar-Lee Princess shown by Mar-Lee Farms, Woodsboro, Maryland.

R. J. Seibert receives highest hort honor

The American Horticultural Society last week recognized the achievements of Dr. Russell J. Seibert, Director of Longwood Gardens, when they awarded him the Liberty Hyde Bailey Medal at meetings held in Hawaii. The medal is the highest honor that the American Horticultural Society can bestow upon an individual and is given to those who have made significant contributions in the field of horticulture. A "pioneering spirit" is sought in candidates for the award, as well as evidence of unusally high achievement.

A distinguished botanist, plant explorer and administrator, Dr. Seibert became the first director of Longwood Gardens in 1955, following the death in 1954 of the Garden's creator, P.S. du Pont. Under his leadership, Longwood has developed from a vast private estate into an outstanding public display garden. Dr. Seibert is credited with a number of new plant introductions from Peru and other parts of the world, and it is through his efforts that Longwood Gardens has become known for its cooperative plant exploration ventures with the United States Department of Agriculture.

Corn enzymes linked to higher yields

KNOXVILLE TENN. - By studying specific enzyme activity in corn, it is possible to learn important facts which may lead to higher-yielding corn varieties, a University of Delaware graduate told agronomists at a recent week-long meeting here. The American Society of Agronomy, the Crop Science Society of America, and the Soil Sceince Society of America assembled for their 67th annual meeting at the University of Tennessee.

Samuel Fullerton, a graduate of the plant science department at the University of Delaware, and Dr. Leroy Svec, assistant professor in plant science, have studied the invertase activity in kernels of corn. Invertase is an enzyme which converts sucrose in corn to its component sugars - glucose and fructose. Developing corn kernels depend upon a supply of sucrose from the leaves, but sucrose cannot move directly into the kernels. It must be converted to glucose and fructose by the enzyme invertase to enter the kernal. After entry, the sugars are available to be made into starch.

Fullerton reported that his and Svec's research showed there is higher invertase activity in short growing season corn hybrids than in long season hybrids. Hybirds of the same maturity but with either normal or high-lysine kernel types display no difference in invertase activity levels. Invertase activity was apparently influenced by temperature and rainfall during the kernel-fill period, the researchers found.

Fullerton and Svec concluded that if the higher rate of invertase activity in shorter season hybrids could be transferred into the full season hybrids genetically, improved yields could result. Also, the limited yield of high-lysine types was not caused by a lack in the invertase activity. These findings may help to produce higher-yielding corn varieties in the future, with greater return to the farmer and possibly lower costs to the consumer of corn products.

Futures trading permission granted

WASHINGTON - The Commodity Future Trading Commission today granted the Chicago Board of Trade's request for permission to establish a futures market in home mortgage-backed certificates guaranteed by the Government National Mortgage Association (Ginnie Maes).

The contract market will allow financial institutions to transfer to investors the financial risks resulting from changes in interest rates during formation of mortgage pools and sale periods.

The Commission granted the request after several months of study, including testimony of expert witnesses, and determination that the plan meets Commission requirements that a future market serve an economic purpose and that it can reasonably be expected to be used for risk hedging. It was submitted to the CFTC by the Board of Trade on May 28, 1975.

"This is an innovative new concept for the futures market," said CFTC Chairman William T. Bagley. "Part of its unique nature grows from the fact that it has a definable social benefit - assisting those persons who buy homes by helping to regularize interest rates for the segement of the home finance industry which trades in the mortgage market. At the same time, it provides an economic benefit to the mortgage industry by furnishing it with a hedging instrument against increasingly high risks caused by recurring fluctuations in mortgage interest rates."

The major originators of mortgage loans are savings and loan associations, commercial banks and mortgage bankers. During 1974, these institutions closed mortgage loans aggregating $84.4 billion. From a total of only $450 million in Ginnie Maes issued to the end of 1970, the market expanded to more than $13 billion issued to the end of 1974. Ginnie Mae certificates totaling $4.5 billion were issued in 1974 alone. This compares with $3 billion issued in 1973 and $2.4 billion in 1972.

The contract will be $100,000 worth of Mortgage Backed Certificates guaranteed for the timely payment of principal and interest by the Government National Mortgage Association, commonly known as Modified Pass Through Certificates, and bearing a stated interest rate of 8 percent. Deliverers may deliver Ginnie Maes with stated interest rates other than 8 percent, provided the Ginnie Maes delivered bear the same yield as 8 percent Ginnie Maes. The price of Ginnie Mae certificates will be on the basis of their delivery in Chicago in minimum price on fluctuations of 1-32 point per 100 points ($31.25 per contract).

The daily limit on price movement will be $750 per contract above or below the previous day's settlement price.

House approves $47.8 million for pesticide control programs

WASHINGTON - The House Agriculture Commitee has approved by a 37 to 3 vote a bill (H.R. 8841) jointly introduced by Chairman Thomas S. Foley, D-Wash., and Rep. William C. Wampler, R-Va., ranking minority member authorizing the appropriation of $47,868,000 for use by Environmental Protection Agency in administering pesticide control programs during the year beginning October 1.

Approval of the legislation, which amends the Federal Insecticide, Fungicide and Rodenticide Act (FIFRA), came after the Committee approved various amendments incorporated into a provision sponsored by Vice Chairman W. R. Poage, D-Tex., and Wampler.

As approved, the bill requires the EPA to obtain and publish the views of the Secretary of Agriculture and of a scientific panel before taking new pesticide control actions or issuing regulations.

One amendment which was adopted provides that the Secretary of the Treasury shall prohibit the entry into the United States of meats and other food products from countries which allow the use of pesticides banned in this country until and unless each lot of such imported meats and products has been inspected and found to contain no toxicant residues in excess of that allowed by this government.

The measure requires that the EPA Administrator, in determining whether to begin proceedings to cancel the registration of a pesticide, or the change its classification, shall take into consideration among other factors the impact of such action of production and prices of agricultural commodities, retail food prices, and on the agricultural economy in general.

The Committee bill also carries several new provisions which would permit farmers to self certify their qualifications to apply restricted use pesticides, to exempt certain animal feed and animal drugs from regulations by EPA, and to give notice to the Committees on Agriculture of the House and the Senate when EPA proposes new regulations.

"I hope it will be possible to schedule this bill for early action on the House Floor," said Chairman Foley after the Committee vote.

Early enactment of the bill is necessitated by virtue of the fact that current funding of pesticide control programs is being done under a three-month interim authorization which expires September 30.

During hearings by the Committee it became evident that proposed changes in the pesticide regulations would make it difficult, if not impossible, to get legislation enacted by June 30, when the then exisitng authorization was due to expire. Consequently, the three-month extension was agreed upon with the hope that some decisions on proposed changes might be reached in the interim.

Over half the sugar produced in the United States comes from beets—a relatively new crop. Cane was the world's only sugar source until an 18th century German scientist proved identical sugar could be produced from beets. The crop was grown chiefly in Europe until U.S. plant breeders developed a disease-resistant variety that could be grown here.

Area farmers visit corn research center

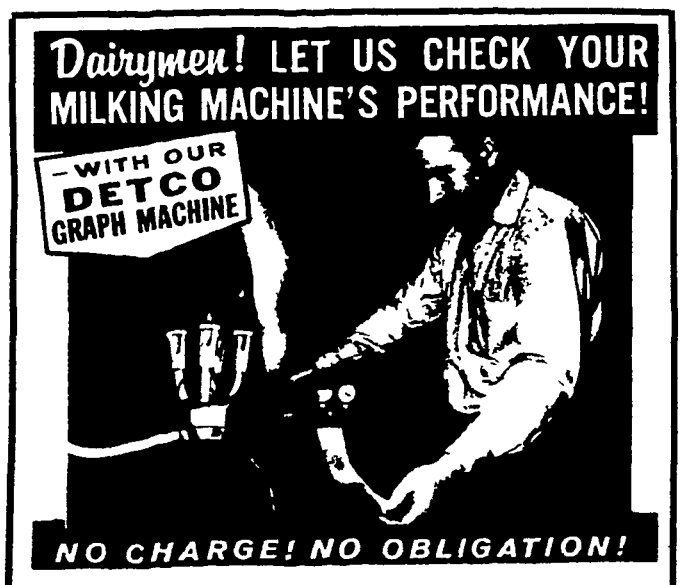
DEKALB, ILL. - C. Henry Breneman of Strasburg, Jerry Roman of Ephrata, Earl W. Rohrer of Smoketown, Ivan Bauman of Lancaster, Pa. & Robert Stoltzfus, Cochranville, viewed the world's largest corn research and testing program last week at DEKALB AgResearch, Inc., a northern Illinois based seed company.

These men were among more than 4,000 individuals who attended a convention honoring DEKALB Dealers from throughout the United States.

"We're proud to have dealers like these marketing for us," says Tom Roberts, Jr., president of DEKALB. "It's individuals like this who are the backbone of the seed business."

"DEKALB Dealers provide their neighbors not only the most productive seed, but also sound advice concerning farming techniques and cultural practices. This year our dealers will have more seed to market than ever before, so we want them to become experts in seed technology for their area, Roberts says."

While in DeKalb, they toured the company's corn research farm, foundation seed production locations and the upcoming site for the Farm Progress Show - one of the most popular displays of agricultural technology in the United States.



If you have a problem of teat and udder erosion in your herd — chances are you are milking with unstable vacuum. And as more and more animal health authorities have been agreeing that many teat and udder injuries — which have contributed to the spread of mastitis — have been caused by unstable milking vacuum — you should have your milking machine's performance checked.

Zero — PIONEER OF FARM BULK MILK COOLERS

IF YOU ARE NOT ALREADY COVERED BY A PENSION OR RETIREMENT PLAN, A NEW LAW NOW ALLOWS YOU TO SET UP A TAX-SHELTERED PLAN OF YOUR OWN.

Introducing the individual retirement account

The Congress of the United States recently passed the Pension Reform Act which allows millions of Americans who have not had the benefits of a pension plan, to put aside tax-free dollars for their retirement.

Basically, under this new law you can take money you earn now . up to $1,500 a year . and put it away for retirement while deducting it from your earnings at income tax time. The interest accrued each year is tax deferred.

At First Federal the interest rate will always be the highest we pay. But if interest rates change, the rate on your IRA account will be automatically adjusted.

Visit any of our five offices for free literature that explains this tax-saving opportunity in detail. Learn how you can use a savings account to enjoy more security in your retirement years and pay less taxes right now. It's very easy.

If you're not already saving with us, maybe the time has come.

Commodity trading executive suspended

WASHINGTON - Robert Haltmier, a New York commodity futures trading account executive, is prohibited from trading on contract markets for five years by a Decision and Order issued in a Commodity Futures Trading Commission proceeding.

Administrative Law Judge John G. Liebert's decision, released today by the Commission, also orders all contract markets to refuse trading privileges to Haltmier for the five year period which will begin October 14 unless notice of an appeal is filed.

Judge Liebert found that Haltmier had executed 208 transactions for the regulated commodity futures trading account of a customer without the customer's knowledge or authorization and that such activities constituted cheating and defrauding the customer in violation of Section 4b of the Commodity Exchange Act.

The unauthorized transactions were made in 1972, while the customer was abroad. Haltmier responded to a complaint against him August, 1974, and a hearing was held before Judge Liebert in January of this year.

Nutrena Controlled Release CLS— so different, it's patented

Your cattle will like Nutrena Controlled Release CLS and you'll like the benefits behind this new development in liquid supplements. The patented process controls the release of protein-building ammonia nitrogen in the rumen compared with a conventional urea-based liquid supplement. This improves the feeding efficiency of the urea. And, the slow-down means an extra margin of safety from urea toxicity—that's important when self-feeding liquid supplement.

Nutrena Controlled Release CLS liquid supplement—a product of Cargill research. It's great for dairy herds as well as beef cattle on range, pasture, stalks, stubble or in the feedlot.

Penn Manor FFA'ers Win Regional Awards

Three youths representing Penn Manor High School, FFA recently placed first in the dairy judging competition held at the Eastern States Expo in Springfield, Mass.

Ron Hunt, Steve Witkowski and Bruce Landis, attended the contest following their second place win in state competition held last June during FFA Days at Penn State.

Placing over teams from 13 other states in the North Atlantic Region the team showed good knowledge of dairy animals.

Ron Hunt, a senior at Penn Manor, placed first in individual competition. He was also the high contestant in the Ayrshire and Guernsey breeds and finished 4th in the Holstein competition.

Bruce Landis, a junior, placed 4th in the individual ranking. In the breed contests, the youth was first in Brown Swiss and 3rd in Guernsey judging.

Steve Witkowski, a junior, finished 15th in the individual rounds and was 4th in the Ayrshire contest.

The team also won the Holstein judging contest. Michael Burton, agricultural instructor at Penn Manor, was coach for the team.

Penn Manor Has Top Poultry Judge

Don Almond, a junior at Penn Manor, placed 9th in individual competition at the Northeast Regional Poultry judging contest held at the Eastern States Exposition in Springfield. Don lead his team to a 5th place finish in the contest in competition with teams from 13 states.

Don won the right to compete at the regional competition after finishing in the top ranks at the FFA State Days held last June.

Don Almond, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Almond, Lancaster, received 9th place honors in the poultry judging contest held recently in conjunction with the Eastern States Expo.

Three youths from Penn Manor High School (Lancaster County) placed high individually at the Eastern States Expo in FFA dairy judging to bring their team first place honors. The youths were competing against teams from 13 other states in the Northeast region. FFA'ers from left: Bruce Landis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jay E. Landis, Lancaster R6; Steve Witkowski, son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Witkowski, Lancaster; and Ron Hunt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Hunt, Millersville. The team was coached by Mike Burton, ag instructor.

Bulls to march at Frederick

COLLEGE PARK - "New Concepts in Feeding Dairy Cattle" will be the principal speaker's topic at this year's fifteenth annual bull stud open house, set for Oct. 16 north of Frederick.

Making the presentation will be Marshall E. McCullough, a veteran professor of animal nutrition at the University of Georgia and animal science department head at the university's outlaying agricultural experiment station near Griffin, Ga.

This year's bull stud open house program will again begin at 10 a.m. in the traditional outdoor tent with a business meeting of the Maryland Artifical Breeding Cooperative, including election of directors.

McCullouch's talk will follow from 11 to 11:45 a.m., and the twelfth annual meeting of the Maryland Day Shrine is scheduled from 11:45 to 12:15.

Barbecued chicken dinner will be served from 12:15 to 1 p.m. Entertainment will follow from 1 to 1:20 p.m. Then follows a 15-minute session for presentation of service awards to artifical insemination technicians employed by the Maryland Artifical Breeding Cooperative.

The day's activities will offically terminate with a parade of bulls from the Sire Power bull stud at Frederick and daughters of bulls from Sire Power bull studs at both Frederick, Md., and Tunkhannock, Pa. The parade will run from 1:35 to 2:45 p.m.

Additional optional events may include a demonstration of semen collection and the opportunity for further inspection of bulls and bull stud facilities.

The open house site is located six miles north of the Frederick city limits on U.S. highway 15, or eight miles south of Thurmont, on the former hangar area of the old Frederick airport. All interested persons - both dairymen and beef producers - are invited to attend.

The concurrent Dairy Shrine meeting this year will see honors bestowed on two veteran Old Line State dairy leaders - one living and one deceased - according to John L. Morris, Extension dairy specialist at the University of Maryland in College Park. Morris is Dairy Shrine secretary, and one of the past honorees himself.

Plowmen sought for match contest

A "run-off-match" to determine the three plowmen who will represent Pennsylvania at the 1976 U.S.A. Plowing Matches will be held October 2 at the Milton Hershey School Farms in Hershey.

The contest, scheduled to start at 12 noon, will be held at the site of the 1973 Agricultural Progress Days, three miles east of Hershey on Route 422.

"State plowing champions of the past 24 years will be eligible to compete in this new event termed the champion's class contest," said Burton S. Horne, Extension agricultural engineer at The Pennsylvania State University and president of the State Plowing Contest Committee. "There will be three divisions - small plow, large plow, and contour."

Mr. Horne points out that the 1976 U.S.A. Plowing Matches will be held in Pennsylvania. In previous years, the current state champion in each of the three divisions represented the state at the national event.

"More than 40 former champions will be eligible to compete in the champion's class contest, the State Plowing Contest official said. "This includes winners dating back to the 1952 contest held in Bedford County."

Mr. Horne exphasizes that there will be no machinery exhibits or demonstrations at the Hershey event. Food will not be served on the grounds.

Broiler conference announced

The Maryland broiler industry's nineteenth annual Serviceman's Conference is scheduled for Sept. 25 at its usual location, the Interstate Inn along U.S. highway 1 on College Park.

Topics at this year's conference will concern effective communication with broiler growers, importance of the grain futures market, and quality control at the grower level.

The day-long program will get underway with registration beginning at 8:30 a.m. and opening remarks at 8:45 by Dr. Elwyn E. Deal, assistant director for programs, Cooperative Extension Service, at the University of Maryland in College Park.

Last fall, when I heard the news from the midwest that supplies of seed corn were going to be short, I knew prices would start climbing I asked my Stanford dealer about it, and he told me that the smartest thing for me to do was to order my NK corn early He told me that the people at Stanford shared my concern about higher prices — and they did something about it They authorized my dealer to give me price protection on my early NK order That meant that if the price of seed corn went up, I would pay the lower early-order price That sounded like more than a fair deal to me, so I ordered early And you know what? The price went up later, saving me $2 50 a bag

That's one of the reasons I'm going back to my Stanford-NK dealer now

Another reason is the big yield potential of Northrup-King hybrids NK corn took more than 80 first-place N C G A state championships in the last six years To me, that's convincing proof that NK hybrids are exactly what we need to get those high-profit yields from our corn acreage

My choice this year is NK's PX76 — the next great hybrid for my area For two years it has been the most consistent high yielder in NK trials across the mid-Atlantic region You might need a mid-season corn on your farm, like PX 50A for grain or silage — or PX 20, an early corn with excellent standability, early spring vigor and fast dry-down

On top of a high-yielding NK corn hybrid, the kind of help I need now is in straight cash savings So I'm ordering my NK corn early again — this time to cash in on Stanford's big new early-order, early-pay discount deal

I like doing business with people who are always there with the kind of help I can really use That's why I'm staying with my Stanford dealer and NK corn

Commission seeks to prevent Futures Trading dishonesty

ATLANTA, GA. - Howard Schneider, General Counsel of the Commodity Futures Trading Commission, said today the Commission will seek cooperation of the States to help prevent dishonesty in the commodity futures trades.

Schneider said in a speech to the Federal Bar Association in Atlanta, Ga., that the Commodity Exchange Act preempts state commodity regulatory laws.

"It was, I believe, the intent of Congress that the bureaucratic red tape inherent in registration with Federal agency and 50 separate state agencies was unnecessary. Thus, we intend to encourage the states to stay away from registering or licensing persons in the commodity field.

"However, we believe the states are legitimately concerned that the CFTC adequately cover the field so that no one engaging in dishonest practices escape enforecement action by virtue of combination of federal preemption and inaction by the CFTC. In the enforcement area, we intend to engage in cooperative effort with the various state agencies."

Schneider said the Commission has asked that "the States come to CFTC for coordination of this mutal enforcement program.

"Since CFTC had primary responsibility, it must be in a position to decide which cases should, because of the importance of the issue presented, be handled by CFTC. Thus, the program can work only if CFTC is the clearing house in the enforcement area.

"Clearly neither the states nor we should be in the posture of litigating out jurisdictional boundaries. We are anxious to see if the cooperative approach we have outlined for state action will work. This next year or so should tell the tale."

The Downings, a musical group performing gospel works, will be featured in concert at the Lancaster Mennonite High School on Saturday evening, Sept. 27 at 7:30 p.m. The group is performing under the auspices of the Garden Spot Gospel Promotion.

Downings to appear at Mennonite School

(Editor's Note) The following is a biographical sketch of the Downings, a gospel music group which will be featured at the Lancaster Mennonite High School on Sat. Sept. 27 at 7:30 p.m.

In March 1969, Paul Downing put together a singing group - 'The Downings' - that statement by itself is perhaps the understatement of the decade. One would be more realistic to say Paul had hand picked the most exciting and taleneted group of singers ever assembled in the gospel music industry. Thus, the beginning of an amazing story concerning, as some say, the most electrifying group in gospel history.

Many adjectives can be used to describe this group and their ability. Whether they sing the old traditional gospel - or country gospel - or contemporary gospel - or rock gospel, it can be summed up simply by saying 'The Downings' are "Out of Sight." Whether they sing in churches, at ball parks, at fairs or the concert stage - the crowds come alive with the impact of the Downings.

This group recognized by all as unique, has captured the heart of gospel America. Musically unequalled, voices unmatched the Downings are further set apart by the spiritual impact they have on their audiences all across the nation.

These exciting people are today's music of tommorow's great hope. Versatile enough to do it all, and all they do is always enough - See 'The Downings.'

Farmers Union elects advisors

The executive committee of the Pennsylvania Farmers Union recently elected three men to serve on the advisory committee of the organization to inform the National Farmers Union, with which it is affiliated, on policy and direction here in Pennsylvania.

The three men elected to the committee are: Joe Cross, vice chairman from Northumberland County; Albert Bentz, chairman from York County; and Irk McConnell, secretary-treasurer from Washington County.

The organization, which claims its main thrust to be the family farm, says it has 18 organized locals in the state of Pennsylvania. It opposes the free market system, citing it as good for neighter the farmer nor consumer.

GRAIN STORAGE TANK

The world's largest corrugated steel grain storage tank is now being offered by Chicago Eastern Corporation.

The 105-foot diameter tank has a storage capacity of 421,000 bushels and provides one-third more capacity than any other corrugated tank available according to the manufacturer. The structure weighs 196,000 pounds and has a 48' eave height and an overall height of 79'7".

New herbicide registered

DES MONIES, IOWA - Registration of Prowl, a new preemergence herbicide for control of annual grasses and important broadleaf weeds in corn, was announced here last week by American Cyanamid Company.

Prowl was registered by the Environmental Protection Agency following several years of extensive field testing at over 800 locations throughout the corn belt.

According to Cyanamid, those tests showed that Prowl will control giant foxtail, green foxtail, yellow foxtail, barnyardgrass, fall panicum, crabgrass and important broadleaf weeds; velvetleaf (buttonweed), lambsquarters, redroot pigweed and smartweed. This range of weed control, the company says, will eliminate the need for a herbicide tank-mix combination where these four important broadleaf weeds are the major problem.

If other broadleaf weeds are present, Prowl is also registered for us in combination with atrazine of Bladex herbicides for control of common ragweed and mustard. The Prowl combination will reduce competition from cocklebur, jimsonweeds and annual morning glory.

Prowl can be applied to sandy loam, loam, silt loam, silty clay loam, and clay loam soil types where the organic matter content is 1½ percent or greater. These soil types comprise about 85 percent of land normally planted to corn. Prowl is applied at or after corn planting, without incorporation, before the corn emerges.

Prowl is formulated as an emulsifiable liquid with four pounds of active ingredient per gallon. It is applied at the rate of 1½ to 2 quarts per acre with the higher rate used on heavier soils or soils with high organic matter content.

If weather or insect damage make it necessary to replant, corn, Prowl treated land can be replanted to corn or soybeans. There are no restrictions on crops planted the following year, and Prowl treated corn can be harvested as grain or silage. If a Prowl atrazine or Prowl-Blades combintaion is used, replanting or rotation restrictions for those products must be followed.

Results of tests show that, when used as directed, Prowl will not injure corn and no environmental damage results from its use.

Prowl has also been registered for use on cotton and registration for use on soybeans is expected in time for the 1977 crop.

As with all pesticides, Cyanamid urges farmers to stop and read the label before using. Additional information on Prowl herbicide can be obtained from the Pesticides Department, American Cyanamid Company, P.O. Box 400, Princeton, New Jersey, 08540.

High Cost

The General Accounting Office which watches over federal spending for the Congress recently reported that 269 federal projects piled up $57 billion in cost overruns. These projects totaled $133 billion instead of $76 billion. Some of the projects will cost nearly ten times more than estimated

Wine grape growers receive boost from law

HARRISBURG - The commonwealth's wine grape growers received a boost from a recent interpretation by the Attorney General's office of the law affecting limited wineries, according to Agriculture Secretary Jim McHale.

The opinion from the Attorney General's office, which was submitted to Liquor Control Board Chairman Henry H. Kaplan, says that a limited winery may produce wine at more than one location and transport that wine between its different plants.

"Pennsylvania's grape harvest is now at least 40,000 tons annually and is valued at about $8.5 million," said McHale. "This is a significant agricultural enterprise which can be expanded with inproved markets."

McHale noted that most grapes are grown for the processed market. "Allowing limited wineries more flexibility would improve that market, with benefits going back to the grape growers," said McHale.

According to the Pennsylvania Liquor Code, a limited winery is a winery with a mixiмum output of 100,000 gallons per year.

The opinion sought by Kaplan concerned whether limited wineries licensed by the Liquor Control Board may have more than one licensed premise and whether they could move bulk wine from an original premise to a location owned by the same company. Deputy Attorney General W. W. Anderson wrote the opinion affirmatively to both questions.

Foliage festival slated

RENOVO - The 27th Annual Pennsylvania State Flaming Foliage Festival will be held here on October 10, 11 and 12. The theme of this year's festival will be "Our Nation's Bicentennial Celebration" in conjunction with the autumn foliage.

The Flaming Foliage Festival is highlighted by the selection of a queen of the festival, who is chosen from schools around the Commonwealth by a panel of judges.

Special guests featured at this year's festival will be Pete Wambach, narrator of the series "This is Pennsylvania" aired at radio stations throughout Pennsylvania.

Guest Speaker at the Queen Coronation Ceremonies will be Tim Fritz from WTAJ-TV, Altoona, Also in attendance at the ceremony will be Miss Connie Harness, the current "Miss Pennsylvania". The Coronation is the culination of the Flaming Foliage Festival amidst the splendor of the autum leaves, as it is traditionally held out-of-doors in a natural grass amphitheater at Hyner.

Highlights in the three day event in October include:

Friday, Flaming Foliage Follies & Queens arrival 8:00 p.m.

All American set for Sept. 22-26

HARRISBURG - The 12th Annual Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show will be held at the Farm Show, September 22-26, under the joint sponsorship of the Pennsylvania Dairy and Allied Industries Association and the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture.

Last year the Sunday before the official opening was set aside as Family Day. It proved so popular that it will be held again this year on Sunday, September 21, with a special invitation extended to the non-farm community. Pennsylvania Agriculture Secretary Jim McHale noted this is an opportunity for everyone to come to the cattle barns at the Farm Show and get a first-hand look at over 2,300 prize dairy animals representing all six breeds. "This is truly one of the finest big-time agricultural expositions in the east," said McHale.

Two new evening attractions will highlight this year's show. On Family Day, there will be a New England Ox Pulling Demonstration from 7:00 to 9:30 p.m. In the Bicentennial spirit, the ox draw is reminiscent of early American farm work.

Carlton B. LaCoss, from Terryville, Connecticut, has organized five teams of oxen to complete in this draw. LaCoss will give a running commentary on the event, providing such insights as to why oxen can draw more weight than a horse.

The second evening attraction will be the first annual Keystone State Championship Pony Pulling Contest to be held at 5 p.m. on September 23.

Competition will be held in three classes: lightweight teams up to 1,000 lbs; mediumweight teams, 1,001 to 1,300 lbs; and heavyweight teams, 1,301 to 1,700 lbs.

First place winners will receive a trophy and a $60 cash prize. Other prizes are: second place, $50; third place, $40; fourth place, $30; and fifth place, $20 Exhibitors of all other teams competing the first pull will receive $15.

The Keystone State Championship Pony Pulling Contest is sponsored by the Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show in cooperation with the Pennsylvania Horse and Mule Association, the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture and the Pennsylvania Farm Show Commission.

Cornland USA show drew 70,000 visitors

The third annual CORNLAND, USA held September 5-7 at Olivia, Minnesota has been pronounced to be an overwhelming success by the show's managers.

The event, billed as the "Largest working ag show in the Upper Midwest", drew an estimated crowd of over 70,000 for the three days. Says Dick Hagen, general manager of CORNLAND, USA, "By any measurement whatsoever, this was the most successful CORNLAND to date. We had a 43 percent increase in commercial exhibits with exhibitors coming from 15 states and Canada. We had attendance from 20 states, plus Canada and New Zealand, and we all enjoyed near-perfect weather for the three-day run."

This year's CORNLAND played host to both the Minnesota and the National Plowing Contests, the Trojan '8000' Tractor Pull, the Country Fiddle Contest & Reunion, and a Tractor Trouble-Shooting Contest.

The fourth annual CORNLAND, USA will be held at Olivia, Minnesota and is tentatively scheduled for September 10, 11 & 12, 1976.

To clean your blender container quickly after use, fill it with two cups of hot water and a few drops of dishwashing liquid, and let the blender run for a minute. Rinse and dry.
